REDS PUSH TOWARD NEW U.N. LINE

Civil Defense Agency Is Set Up

Truman Asks $17.8 Billions For Defense

50,000 Face Draft Call In February

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31 (AP) — President Truman asked Congress today for a vast new outlay of $17,850,000,000 to build for victory in Korea and prepare for possible attack "in other parts of the world."

At the same time, the Army issued a new draft call for 50,000 men in February, raising the total to 300,000 since the first call in September.

Declaring that the intervention of Red China in Korea "casts a more ominous shadow over the prospects for world peace," Mr. Truman said military manpower goals must be increased.

The President said the armed forces now have a strength of more than 2,225,000, and he told the lawmakers:

"Our goal, until this most recent act of aggression, has been a strength of 2,800,000 by the end of the current fiscal year (next June 30).

Must "Raise Our Sights"

"Now we face the necessity of having to raise our sights."

He did not say how high.

The President's message and a fast-breaking round of other developments came as British Prime Minister Attlee and perhaps French Premier Rene Pleven prepared to fly to Washington for conferences with Mr. Truman on Tuesday.

Attlee is flying to Washington on Monday and a Foreign Office spokesman in Paris said Plevin may join in the talks on the darkening Asiatic crisis.

Attlee will urge President Truman to avoid war with Red China at all costs, British informants said tonight.

Truman, Leaders Confer

The President went over the situation in a tense, hour-long meeting with congressional, military and diplomatic leaders at the White House. Then, at noon, he sent a message of Capitol Hill urging the lawmakers to act with the "utmost speed" in providing:

1. $16,800,000,000 for swift expansion of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

2. $1,050,000,000 to speed the atomic energy program for production of A-bombs and development of the hydrogen bomb.

In addition, Mr. Truman requested $84,000,000 to expand the power output of the Tennessee Valley Authority—power used in the making of the atom bomb.

Well-qualified informants said part of the new funds will go toward a completely new and giant atomic plant at a site not yet announced.

Like Being Back From The Dead

Reported missing in action, Navy Machinists' Mate First Class Clinton R. Anderson, McPherson, Kan., surprised his almost unbelieving wife, Toni, when he returned from Korea. Their embrace in downtown San Diego, Calif., stopped traffic. Mixup in records occurred when Anderson got emergency leave after father's death.

Ex-Governor Of Fla. Named Administrator

Truman Issues Executive Order

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — President Truman today set up a Federal Civilian Defense Administration and named a former governor, Millard F. Caldwell Jr., of Florida, to head it.

Caldwell's appointment to the $17,500-a-year post, effective at once, was announced after he called on the President.

Millard Caldwell

Pending in Congress is new legislation creating such an agency and the post of administrator with vast powers to guide the nation into a state of readiness to meet any enemy attack.

However, the President by executive order put Caldwell to work. His salary is to be paid out of the President's emergency fund pending congressional action. Employes at work on civilian defense planning under the National Security Resources Board will shift over to Caldwell's command.

"Tremendous Job"

The appointment does not require Senate sanction until legislation is enacted covering it.

Caldwell, 53, was governor from 1945 to 1949 and now practices law at Tallahassee. He called the new assignment "a tremendous job."

"I have no views yet as to the course we will take or how we will operate," he added. "We'll be very careful in making the decisions."

He said the public first must be made conscious of the need and then a program executed that will make the nation safe.

The pending bill would empower the administrator, working directly under the President, to control the establishment of a system of defense including allotment of federal money to the states for expenses, setting up a U. S. civil defense corps, and coordinating the civil defense functions of other federal agencies, including the Defense Department.

New Agency Established

James J. Wadsworth has been acting director of civil defense under the NSRB. White House officials indicated he will remain with the new agency.

Shortly after the appointment, the White House made public an executive order by the President establishing the Federal Civil Defense Administration under the President.

The order asserts that the basic purpose of the new agency will be to "promote and facilitate the civil defense of the United States in cooperation with the several states."

Lack Of Authority To Strike At China Reds In Manchuria Big Handicap, M'Arthur Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today that orders forbidding him to strike across the Korean border at the Chinese Communists are putting United Nations forces under "an enormous handicap, without precedent in military history."

MacArthur called the situation in Korea critical but not hopeless in view of the tremendous resources that the free nations of the world still can throw into the fight.

He said it wouldn't be appropriate for him to comment on the possible use of the atom bomb against the Chinese Reds.

MacArthur's comments were made in a copyrighted interview with the U. S. News and World Report. The magazine made them available for publication as soon as they were received here by cable although they won't be published in the magazine until next Monday.

U. S., Not U. N., Forbids Move

Highly placed administration sources in Washington said it is the U. S. government rather than the United Nations which has forbidden MacArthur to send troops or bombers across the Korean border to smash at strategic targets in Red China.

These sources, who asked not to be named, said MacArthur's directive from the U. N. was to smash the aggression and restore peace in Korea.

Defense officials said strict orders have been given MacArthur to keep out of Red China in accordance with the "spirit" of the U. N. directive.

President Truman said yesterday that it is for the United Nations to decide whether the war can be carried into Red China if necessary.

MacArthur Hits "Gossip"

The New York Times quoted MacArthur today as saying he had received "no suggestion from any authoritative source" that his North Korea drive should have been halted some distance short of the Manchurian border.

The Times had asked MacArthur for comment on statements by some unnamed Washington officials that he had strongly opposed suggestions that he halt his October advance south of the border so as to avoid clashes with Chinese Communists.

Replying, MacArthur hit out at what he called "misleading anonymous gossip" and flatly denied that his conduct of the campaign had anything to do with bringing the Chinese Reds into the war.

U. S. Has Stockpile Of 700 Atom Bombs, Magazine Reports

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—Look magazine estimates the United States has a stockpile of about 700 atomic bombs. It also says that prospects of success in making hydrogen bombs are doubtful.

The magazine's a-bomb stockpile figure exceeds the few previously pulished estimates, which have ranged from 200 to 400.

The author of the article, which appears in the Look issue for next Tuesday, is Stephen White, a memer of the magazine's staff and former science writer for the New York Herald Tribune. He was at Bikini and knew most of the top atomic scientists. Recently he has been in Europe. His estimate is based partly on European sources.

Eight Chinese Divisions Bear Down On Flank

U. S. Planes Inflict Heavy Casualties

TOKYO, Saturday, Dec. 2 (AP) — Eight of 18 Chinese Red divisions massed in Northwest Korea today were reported bearing down toward the east flank of the new United Nations defense line.

Swarms of U. S. Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers strafed and rocketed the southbound columns, inflicting heavy casualties.

Six Communist armies — at full strength each has 40,000 troops — appeared building up for a powerful attack aimed at turning the U. N. right flank and rolling on to Pyongyang, the former North Korean capital 30 miles south of the new defense line.

The abated Communist offensive, which already has rolled the U. S. Eighth Army back 40 miles, appeared developing against Songchon. It guards the flank of U. N. defenses 30 miles north of Pyongyang.

Trapped Marines Fight Hard

In the snowy northeast sector, cut-off American marines and infantrymen made slow headway on both sides of the Changjin reservoir in efforts to break out of Red traps and pull back south.

Red losses were heavy. Tenth Corps officers said more than 6,000 of the enemy have been killed in Northeast Korea in the past five days.

U. S. 10th Corps headquarters reported that marines on the west side of the ice-covered reservoir had abandoned Yudam and were under fierce attack from three sides. The leathernecks were trying to reach Hagaru, at the south end of the reservoir 10 miles southeast of Yudam.

U. S. Seventh Division infantrymen on the east side still were hemmed in against the reservoir.

Enemy fire also kept closed a seven-mile segment of the main supply route south between Hagaru and Koto.

The lull which fell over the critical northwest front Thursday continued. But eight Red divisions — possibly 65,000 to 100,000 men — were seen moving southward toward Songchon. Another Red division was reported in the Samso area, 27 miles northwest of Songchon.

Chinese Ruse Detected

Near Kaechon, seven miles north of Samso, air observers spotted 1,000 Chinese changing from uniforms into civilian clothing—a ruse aimed at facilitating infiltration.

Any flanking thrust at Songchon would be a repetition of the Chinese tactic which succeeded along the Chongchon river line farther north.

The Reds smashed three South Korean divisions defending the east flank and forced the Eighth Army to pull back hastily across the Chongchon to avoid a trap.

For the third time in a week, enemy planes raided Pyongyang Friday night. Three planes dropped six bombs on an airport and two bombs on marshalling yards. No damage was reported.

French Premier Wins 347 To 184 Confidence Vote

Opposition Almost Entirely Communist

PARIS, Dec. 1 (AP) — France's middle-of-the-road coalition government won a vote of confidence tonight, withstanding a severe attack — mostly Communist — which threatened to topple it at a time of world crisis.

By a comfortable margin, 347 to 184, Premier Rene Pleven rode out the parliamentary storm on the eve of his flight to London to confer with Prime Minister Attlee on the world situation.

Votes Taxes For Arms

This was the issue: Did a substantial majority of the Assembly stand behind Defense Minister Jules Moch, and would the majority vote 190,000,000,000 francs (about $540,000,000) in new taxes for rearmament?

The Assembly's majority said it would do that.

Communists and extreme right-wing followers of Gen. Charles De-Gaulle — aided by a handful of deputies who previously supported the government — teamed up in the attack on Moch. They accused him of whitewashing an army scandal involving the leak of a secret report on Indochina, where the French are fighting a Communist-led rebellion.

Significant Victory

When the vote came, however, the opposition was almost exclusively Communist. It was a significant victory for Pleven, who has been in office since last July.

Tomorrow Pleven and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman go to London to talk with Attlee before Attlee hurries to Washington to confer with President Truman.

Pleven told the Assembly his cabinet was pleased at the Truman-Attlee plans. He made no mention of going to Washington himself.

Tax Increase Bills Receive High Priority

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Tax increase legislation was assigned high priority today in both houses of Congress.

The House will begin debate Monday, and vote Tuesday, on the $3,400,000,000 excess profits tax bill formally introduced today by the Ways and Means Committee.

In the Senate, Chairman George (D-Ga) announced that the Finance Committee will start "unlimited and uncensored" hearings Monday on the administration's request for $4,000,000,000 in new taxes on business.

The chairman's description of the scope of the hearings apparently means that the Senate committee will make no effort to confine testimony to an excess profits tax on corporations, as the Democratic majority on the House Ways and Means unit insisted upon doing. Many Republicans favor an increase in the normal corporation tax instead.

George estimated that the public hearings can be cleaned up next week, after which the senators will go behind closed doors to draft their version of the bill. Speed is essential if Congress is to complete action on the measure during the short session, which must adjourn before noon, Jan. 3.

The House bill was cleared for debate by the Rules Committee over spirited Republican objections. Rep. Mason (R-Ill) called it a "pig in a poke" bill that had been developed as a political come-on.

All Purchasing Of Rubber May Be Taken Over By Government

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — The government is considering a plan to take over all purchasing of rubber as it did in World War Two, officials said tonight.

The action would not affect the supply of rubber for civilians but, by removing U. S. private industry from the world market, would eliminate much of the competition which has sent prices soaring.

The plan is said to be well advanced and due to reach the National Security Resources Board for approval next week.

It would make the General Services Administration, headed by Jess Larson, the sole buyer of natural rubber. It would then sell the product to private industry.

Natural Rubber Usage Cut

The government, owner of the country's synthetic industry, already is virtually the sole producer and seller of synthetic rubber. Both types are allocated to industry by the National Production Authority.

A 30 per cent cut in natural rubber usage in January and February will be offset—or more than offset—by rising synthetic production, the NPA said.

The rubber industry advisory committee was notified by the NPA that such a cut would be applied in a forthcoming order governing those two months. The industry was told that NPA will continue to allocate both natural and synthetic rubber, but the tire and rubber industry will get a total amount equal to November consumption for both military and civilian use, 90,000 tons each month.

Elsewhere on the home front, the Senate Banking Committee arranged today to get the views of key government officials on the prospects for wage-price controls.

Prices Hit New High

The lawmakers acted as the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported wholesale prices hit a new high, and the Census Bureau reported a "slight" increase in joblessness among factory workers.

Chairman Maybank (D-SC) told the Senate that the Banking Committee will question Economic Stabilization Director Alan Valentine about the control outlook at a public hearing Monday.

On Tuesday, Maybank said, the committee will hear Mayor Michael V. DiSalle, of Toledo, who was appointed price administrator by President Truman yesterday.

Snow-Melting Test At Wheeling Is Flop

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP) — The city of Wheeling conducted its much-heralded experiment in melting snow with gas flames late today.

It was somewhat of a flop.

City Manager William N. Hunter, conceding total failure of the experiment, said in effect that you couldn't blame the city for trying to find a cheap means of ridding the streets of their slushy blankets.

Wilbur Everett, a successful Bellaire, O., manufacturer of bottled gas who festered the idea, admitted the experiment didn't work out as he expected but said it was planned too hastily and should be tried again.

Treaty Defense Plans Pushed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—Military leaders of the Atlantic pact powers plan to meet soon to seek a quick accord on united defenses for Western Europe, it was reported today.

Substantial progress was said to have been made toward solving the dilemma of how to gear German troop units into the combined force. Working committees have been pounding at the problem since a deadlock arose among the treaty nations last October.

Meetings in London next week may point the way to a speedy solution, it was indicated. This, in turn, would clear the way for the selection of a supreme commander for the combined force. This is the post expected to be handed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

American leaders prodded for action amid the urgency of a mounting world war threat.

Md. Departments Ask $160,302,000

BALTIMORE, Dec. 1 (AP) — The various departments of Maryland's state government have asked $160,302,000 on which to operate in the fiscal year which starts next July 1.

This is about 10 per cent more than the appropriations they receive for the current fiscal year.

At budget making time a year ago, the various departments asked for $148,511,217.

Gov. Lane pared the requests down to $143,066,052. The supplemental budget and various editions raised current appropriations to $143,999,037.

The $160,000,000 figure on requests for fiscal 1952 is not final, since the money for three small departments has been estimated. A slight upward revision is expected before the Department of Budget and Procurement submits the figures to the new state administration in January.

Farmer Guilty In Child's Death

LAKELAND, Ga., Dec. 1. (AP)—A 47-year-old farmer was convicted today of doing what he declared no man could have the heart to do—murdering his grandchild for insurance money.

Charged with beating to death two grandchildren and burning them to hide the crime, Carthy Royals declared from the witness stand:

"I don't believe there is a man in the United States who would have the heart to take his little grandchildren out and kill them."

But when all the testimony and arguments were in, a Superior Court jury found Royals guilty of murdering little Martha Browning, 2. He was charged with slaying Martha and her brother, Cleon, 4, children of his daughter, for $500 insurance policies made out to his wife. He was tried only for Martha's death.

The jury did not recommend mercy. A death penalty thus was automatic.

Indian Delegate Confers With Wu

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—India's Sir Benegal N. Rau met today with Red China's representative in the first attempt here at conciliation of the Korean crisis. He said later he still hopes for a solution.

"It was my impression that they (the Chinese Communists) too would like a peaceful settlement," Sir Benegal said to newsmen after a conversation of almost an hour with Wu Hsiu-Chuan, Chinese Communist representative to the United Nations. "It is that which makes me hopeful."

Rau said he hopes to see Wu again before Monday. It was indicated that they talked only on preliminaries today and did not get down to brass tacks.

Wu also talked with Secretary-General Trygve Lie—for an hour and a half in the new U. N. building in Manhatton. Lie's spokesman said they discussed general matters and Lie showed Wu the New York City skyline.

The U. N. General Assembly is expected to start on the Red China Korean crisis early next week after the West decides what resolution it wants to offer.

Japs Hope Atom Bomb Not Dropped In Korea

TOKYO, Dec. 1 (AP) — Japanese expressed hope today that United Nations forces would not use the atom bomb in Korea.

Asked about President Truman's statement the bomb would be used if necessary, some expressed concern that an A-bomb dropped in Korea would affect the Japanese islands.

Others said the bomb would not be effective because of the nearness of the battle lines and the fact the Chinese Red forces are not concentrated.

They felt the bomb would be of more military value if dropped in Manchuria.

Truman Blames USSR For Korean Aggression

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — President Truman, in his message to Congress today, repeatedly pointed a finger of blame at Russia for the aggression in Korea and for the shaky state of world peace.

He lashed at the Chinese Communists, too, saying they had attacked United Nations troops "without a shadow of justification" and in "naked, deliberate and unprovoked" aggression.

"The only explanation," he said, "is that these Chinese have been misled or forced into their reckless attack—an act which can only bring tragedy to themselves—to further the imperialist designs of the Soviet Union."

Churches Urged To Extend Activity To World Affairs

CLEVELAND, Dec. 1 (AP)—The first president of the two-day-old National Council of Churches Called tonight for a church "extended and applied to every aspect of life."

"There can be no artificial division between the sacred and the secular," declared the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill of Greenwich, Conn., presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

"The Gospel has to do with international relations, with peace or war, with the atom bomb, with economic conditions, with family life, for nothing human can be alien to the love of God in Christ."

Bishop Sherrill, who this morning was elected first president of the new council uniting the work of 31,000,000 American Protestants and eastern Orthodox communicants, made his plea for "a church of deep conviction and spiritual experience" in a prepared presidential message to the council's general assembly in Cleveland's public auditorium.

Earlier today, Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania and one of four vice presidents-at-large of the national council, told the delegates he did not believe the atom bomb should be used against the Chinese people.

Earl Browder Fails To Post Bond, Jailed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—Earl Browder, twice the Communist candidate for president of the United States, went handcuffed to jail today after he failed to produce $1,500 bond on a contempt of Congress charge.

Apparently Federal Judge Edward M. Curran's decision came as no surprise to the 59-year-old defendant. He showed up in District Court for his arraignment carrying an overnight bag. Browder has been behind the bars before—in Leavenworth and Atlanta federal prisons.

Browder told the judge he had no attorney and no money to hire one. He rejected the offer of a court-appointed lawyer and elected to serve as his own counsel.

Prices Hit New All-Time Peak

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Wholesale prices, as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, hit an all-time high during the week ended Nov. 28.

The BLS reported today that at the week's end its index of wholesale prices stood at 171.7 per cent of the 1926 average, which is the base, or 100. The index was 9.1 per cent above the pre-Korean level of June 20, 1.2 per cent above a month ago and 13.3 per cent above one year ago.

The previous record high was on Aug. 17, 1948, when the index reached 170.3.

All commodities other than farm products and foods advanced 0.1 per cent to another postwar high, 7.5 per cent above the pre-Korea figure.

However, some prices on spot markets and organized exchanges were down. The decline was largely in response to the good military news from Korea—it was good at that time—and the normal seasonal declines in some agricultural products.

Joker In The Deck

A U. S. FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION COMMAND POST, Korea, Dec. 1 (AP) — On the bulletin board of this post is a newspaper clipping with a huge headline: "Americans due to leave Korea by Christmas."

Pinned to it is the joker from a deck of cards.

Flash Over Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Dec. 1 (AP) — A brilliant flash, visible in such widely separated places as Kodiak and Fairbanks, lighted Alaskan skies last night.

By consensus, it was a meteor although there were unverified reports that antiaircraft batteries opened fire on the object as it whizzed over Anchorage.

Barkley Loses Weight

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Vice President Barkley has lost 15 pounds and is feeling fine, he said today.

Asked about his diet, Barkley said it is simple:

"Just don't eat the things you like to eat."

World War I Slacker's Son Arrested As Draft Dodger

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP) — Alfred Bergdoll, 23-year-old son of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, notorious "No. 1 Slacker" of World War 1, was arrested today as a draft dodger like his father.

The pallid-faced, German-born youth gave no specific reason for defiantly refusing to heed a Selective Service order to report for induction in the armed services.

Bergdoll, employed as a $23-a-week clerk in New York City, has been living apart from his wealthy one-time playboy father, who is now a gentleman farmer in Charles City, Va.

"He just wants nothing to do with combat or any other services," Assistant U. S. Attorney Silvio J. Mollo told U. S. Commissioner Edward H. McDonald at the youth's arraignment.

McDonald held young Bergdoll in $5,000 bail for hearing Dec. 15 on a charge of violating the Selective Service Act of 1948.

Mollo read at the arraignment a letter he said young Bergdoll wrote to his draft board in August. It said:

"Herewith is the order, and also other paraphernalia I received today. I will not (underscored) report for physical examination on Monday; not on any other day, either!

"I will refuse to be inducted into the armed forces, if any attempt is made to induct me."

Two-Headed Baby Born In Youngstown, O

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 1. (AP)—A two-headed baby, with four arms was born today to the 19-year-old wife of a negro steel worker.

Dr. B. B. Burrowes said the child had a single abdomen and two legs.

The boy was reported responding to treatment in an incubator at Youngstown Southside hospital. He has not been weighed. Little hope was held that he would live.

Swarms of U. S. Fifth Air Force fighter-bombers strafed and rocketed the southbound columns, inflicting heavy casualties.

Six Communist armies — at full strength each has 40,000 troops — appeared building up for a powerful attack aimed at turning the U. N. right flank and rolling on to Pyongyang, the former North Korean capital 30 miles south of the new defense line.

The abated Communist offensive, which already has rolled the U. S. Eighth Army back 40 miles, appeared developing against Songchon. It guards the flank of U. N. defenses 30 miles north of Pyongyang.

Trapped Marines Fight Hard

In the snowy northeast sector, cut-off American marines and infantrymen made slow headway on both sides of the Changjin reservoir in efforts to break out of Red traps and pull back south.

Red losses were heavy. Tenth Corps officers said more than 6,000 of the enemy have been killed in Northeast Korea in the past five days.

U. S. 10th Corps headquarters reported that marines on the west side of the ice-covered reservoir had abandoned Yudam and were under fierce attack from three sides. The leathernecks were trying to reach Hagaru, at the south end of the reservoir 10 miles southeast of Yudam.

U. S. Seventh Division infantrymen on the east side still were hemmed in against the reservoir.

Enemy fire also kept closed a seven-mile segment of the main supply route south between Hagaru and Koto.

The lull which fell over the critical northwest front Thursday continued. But eight Red divisions — possibly 65,000 to 100,000 men — were seen moving southward toward Songchon. Another Red division was reported in the Samso area, 27 miles northwest of Songchon.

Chinese Ruse Detected

Near Kaechon, seven miles north of Samso, air observers spotted 1,000 Chinese changing from uniforms into civilian clothing—a ruse aimed at facilitating infiltration.

Any flanking thrust at Songchon would be a repetition of the Chinese tactic which succeeded along the Chongchon river line farther north.

The Reds smashed three South Korean divisions defending the east flank and forced the Eighth Army to pull back hastily across the Chongchon to avoid a trap.

For the third time in a week, enemy planes raided Pyongyang Friday night. Three planes dropped six bombs on an airport and two bombs on marshalling yards. No damage was reported.

French Premier Wins 347 To 184 Confidence Vote

Opposition Almost Entirely Communist

PARIS, Dec. 1 (AP) — France's middle-of-the-road coalition government won a vote of confidence tonight, withstanding a severe attack — mostly Communist — which threatened to topple it at a time of world crisis.

By a comfortable margin, 347 to 184, Premier Rene Pleven rode out the parliamentary storm on the eve of his flight to London to confer with Prime Minister Attlee on the world situation.

Votes Taxes For Arms

This was the issue: Did a substantial majority of the Assembly stand behind Defense Minister Jules Moch, and would the majority vote 190,000,000,000 francs (about $540,000,000) in new taxes for rearmament?

The Assembly's majority said it would do that.

Communists and extreme right-wing followers of Gen. Charles De-Gaulle — aided by a handful of deputies who previously supported the government — teamed up in the attack on Moch. They accused him of whitewashing an army scandal involving the leak of a secret report on Indochina, where the French are fighting a Communist-led rebellion.

Significant Victory

When the vote came, however, the opposition was almost exclusively Communist. It was a significant victory for Pleven, who has been in office since last July.

Tomorrow Pleven and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman go to London to talk with Attlee before Attlee hurries to Washington to confer with President Truman.

Pleven told the Assembly his cabinet was pleased at the Truman-Attlee plans. He made no mention of going to Washington himself.

Tax Increase Bills Receive High Priority

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Tax increase legislation was assigned high priority today in both houses of Congress.

The House will begin debate Monday, and vote Tuesday, on the $3,400,000,000 excess profits tax bill formally introduced today by the Ways and Means Committee.

In the Senate, Chairman George (D-Ga) announced that the Finance Committee will start "unlimited and uncensored" hearings Monday on the administration's request for $4,000,000,000 in new taxes on business.

The chairman's description of the scope of the hearings apparently means that the Senate committee will make no effort to confine testimony to an excess profits tax on corporations, as the Democratic majority on the House Ways and Means unit insisted upon doing. Many Republicans favor an increase in the normal corporation tax instead.

George estimated that the public hearings can be cleaned up next week, after which the senators will go behind closed doors to draft their version of the bill. Speed is essential if Congress is to complete action on the measure during the short session, which must adjourn before noon, Jan. 3.

The House bill was cleared for debate by the Rules Committee over spirited Republican objections. Rep. Mason (R-Ill) called it a "pig in a poke" bill that had been developed as a political come-on.

All Purchasing Of Rubber May Be Taken Over By Government

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — The government is considering a plan to take over all purchasing of rubber as it did in World War Two, officials said tonight.

The action would not affect the supply of rubber for civilians but, by removing U. S. private industry from the world market, would eliminate much of the competition which has sent prices soaring.

The plan is said to be well advanced and due to reach the National Security Resources Board for approval next week.

It would make the General Services Administration, headed by Jess Larson, the sole buyer of natural rubber. It would then sell the product to private industry.

Natural Rubber Usage Cut

The government, owner of the country's synthetic industry, already is virtually the sole producer and seller of synthetic rubber. Both types are allocated to industry by the National Production Authority.

A 30 per cent cut in natural rubber usage in January and February will be offset—or more than offset—by rising synthetic production, the NPA said.

The rubber industry advisory committee was notified by the NPA that such a cut would be applied in a forthcoming order governing those two months. The industry was told that NPA will continue to allocate both natural and synthetic rubber, but the tire and rubber industry will get a total amount equal to November consumption for both military and civilian use, 90,000 tons each month.

Elsewhere on the home front, the Senate Banking Committee arranged today to get the views of key government officials on the prospects for wage-price controls.

Prices Hit New High

The lawmakers acted as the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported wholesale prices hit a new high, and the Census Bureau reported a "slight" increase in joblessness among factory workers.

Chairman Maybank (D-SC) told the Senate that the Banking Committee will question Economic Stabilization Director Alan Valentine about the control outlook at a public hearing Monday.

On Tuesday, Maybank said, the committee will hear Mayor Michael V. DiSalle, of Toledo, who was appointed price administrator by President Truman yesterday.

Snow-Melting Test At Wheeling Is Flop

WHEELING, W. Va., Dec. 1 (AP) — The city of Wheeling conducted its much-heralded experiment in melting snow with gas flames late today.

It was somewhat of a flop.

City Manager William N. Hunter, conceding total failure of the experiment, said in effect that you couldn't blame the city for trying to find a cheap means of ridding the streets of their slushy blankets.

Wilbur Everett, a successful Bellaire, O., manufacturer of bottled gas who fostered the idea, admitted the experiment didn't work out as he expected but said it was planned too hastily and should be tried again.

Treaty Defense Plans Pushed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—Military leaders of the Atlantic pact powers plan to meet soon to seek a quick accord on united defenses for Western Europe, it was reported today.

Substantial progress was said to have been made toward solving the dilemma of how to gear German troop units into the combined force. Working committees have been pounding at the problem since a deadlock arose among the treaty nations last October.

Meetings in London next week may point the way to a speedy solution, it was indicated. This, in turn, would clear the way for the selection of a supreme commander for the combined force. This is the post expected to be handed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

American leaders prodded for action amid the urgency of a mounting world war threat.

Prices Hit New All-Time Peak

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Wholesale prices, as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, hit an all-time high during the week ended Nov. 28.

The BLS reported today that at the week's end its index of wholesale prices stood at 171.7 per cent of the 1926 average, which is the base, or 100. The index was 9.1 per cent above the pre-Korean level of June 20, 1.2 per cent above a month ago and 13.3 per cent above one year ago.

The previous record high was on Aug. 17, 1948, when the index reached 170.3.

All commodities other than farm products and foods advanced 0.1 per cent to another postwar high, 7.5 per cent above the pre-Korea figure.

However, some prices on spot markets and organized exchanges were down. The decline was largely in response to the good military news from Korea—it was good at that time—and the normal seasonal declines in some agricultural products.

Md. Departments Ask $160,302,000

BALTIMORE, Dec. 1 (AP) — The various departments of Maryland's state government have asked $160,302,000 on which to operate in the fiscal year which starts next July 1.

This is about 10 per cent more than the appropriations they receive for the current fiscal year.

At budget making time a year ago, the various departments asked for $148,511,217.

Gov. Lane pared the requests down to $143,066,052. The supplemental budget and various editions raised current appropriations to $143,999,037.

The $160,000,000 figure on requests for fiscal 1952 is not final, since the money for three small departments has been estimated. A slight upward revision is expected before the Department of Budget and Procurement submits the figures to the new state administration in January.

Farmer Guilty In Child's Death

LAKELAND, Ga., Dec. 1. (AP)—A 47-year-old farmer was convicted today of doing what he declared no man could have the heart to do—murdering his grandchild for insurance money.

Charged with beating to death two grandchildren and burning them to hide the crime, Carthy Royals declared from the witness stand:

"I don't believe there is a man in the United States who would have the heart to take his little grandchildren out and kill them."

But when all the testimony and arguments were in, a Superior Court jury found Royals guilty of murdering little Martha Browning, 2. He was charged with slaying Martha and her brother, Cleon, 4, children of his daughter, for $500 insurance policies made out to his wife. He was tried only for Martha's death.

The jury did not recommend mercy. A death penalty thus was automatic.

Indian Delegate Confers With Wu

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—India's Sir Benegal N. Rau met today with Red China's representative in the first attempt here at conciliation of the Korean crisis. He said later he still hopes for a solution.

"It was my impression that they (the Chinese Communists) too would like a peaceful settlement," Sir Benegal said to newsmen after a conversation of almost an hour with Wu Hsiu-Chuan, Chinese Communist representative to the United Nations. "It is that which makes me hopeful."

Rau said he hopes to see Wu again before Monday. It was indicated that they talked only on preliminaries today and did not get down to brass tacks.

Wu also talked with Secretary-General Trygve Lie—for an hour and a half in the new U. N. building in Manhatton. Lie's spokesman said they discussed general matters and Lie showed Wu the New York City skyline.

The U. N. General Assembly is expected to start on the Red China Korean crisis early next week after the West decides what resolution it wants to offer.

Japs Hope Atom Bomb Not Dropped In Korea

TOKYO, Dec. 1 (AP) — Japanese expressed hope today that United Nations forces would not use the atom bomb in Korea.

Asked about President Truman's statement the bomb would be used if necessary, some expressed concern that an A-bomb dropped in Korea would affect the Japanese islands.

Others said the bomb would not be effective because of the nearness of the battle lines and the fact the Chinese Red forces are not concentrated.

They felt the bomb would be of more military value if dropped in Manchuria.

Truman Blames USSR For Korean Aggression

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — President Truman, in his message to Congress today, repeatedly pointed a finger of blame at Russia for the aggression in Korea and for the shaky state of world peace.

He lashed at the Chinese Communists, too, saying they had attacked United Nations troops "without a shadow of justification" and in "naked, deliberate and unprovoked" aggression.

"The only explanation," he said, "is that these Chinese have been misled or forced into their reckless attack—an act which can only bring tragedy to themselves—to further the imperialist designs of the Soviet Union."

Churches Urged To Extend Activity To World Affairs

CLEVELAND, Dec. 1 (AP)—The first president of the two-day-old National Council of Churches Called tonight for a church "extended and applied to every aspect of life."

"There can be no artificial division between the sacred and the secular," declared the Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill of Greenwich, Conn., presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

"The Gospel has to do with international relations, with peace or war, with the atom bomb, with economic conditions, with family life, for nothing human can be alien to the love of God in Christ."

Bishop Sherrill, who this morning was elected first president of the new council uniting the work of 31,000,000 American Protestants and eastern Orthodox communicants, made his plea for "a church of deep conviction and spiritual experience" in a prepared presidential message to the council's general assembly in Cleveland's public auditorium.

Earlier today, Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania and one of four vice presidents-at-large of the national council, told the delegates he did not believe the atom bomb should be used against the Chinese people.

Earl Browder Fails To Post Bond, Jailed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP)—Earl Browder, twice the Communist candidate for president of the United States, went handcuffed to jail today after he failed to produce $1,500 bond on a contempt of Congress charge.

Apparently Federal Judge Edward M. Curran's decision came as no surprise to the 59-year-old defendant. He showed up in District Court for his arraignment carrying an overnight bag. Browder has been behind the bars before—in Leavenworth and Atlanta federal prisons.

Browder told the judge he had no attorney and no money to hire one. He rejected the offer of a court-appointed lawyer and elected to serve as his own counsel.

Flash Over Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Dec. 1 (AP) — A brilliant flash, visible in such widely separated places as Kodiak and Fairbanks, lighted Alaskan skies last night.

By consensus, it was a meteor although there were unverified reports that antiaircraft batteries opened fire on the object as it whizzed over Anchorage.

Barkley Loses Weight

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 (AP) — Vice President Barkley has lost 15 pounds and is feeling fine, he said today.

Asked about his diet, Barkley said it is simple:

"Just don't eat the things you like to eat."

Joker In The Deck

A U. S. FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION COMMAND POST, Korea, Dec. 1 (AP) — On the bulletin board of this post is a newspaper clipping with a huge headline: "Americans due to leave Korea by Christmas."

Pinned to it is the joker from a deck of cards.

World War I Slacker's Son Arrested As Draft Dodger

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP) — Alfred Bergdoll, 23-year-old son of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, notorious "No. 1 Slacker" of World War 1, was arrested today as a draft dodger like his father.

The pallid-faced, German-born youth gave no specific reason for defiantly refusing to heed a Selective Service order to report for induction in the armed services.

Bergdoll, employed as a $23-a-week clerk in New York City, has been living apart from his wealthy one-time playboy father, who is now a gentleman farmer in Charles City, Va.

"He just wants nothing to do with combat or any other services," Assistant U. S. Attorney Silvio J. Mollo told U. S. Commissioner Edward H. McDonald at the youth's arraignment.

McDonald held young Bergdoll in $5,000 bail for hearing Dec. 15 on a charge of violating the Selective Service Act of 1948.

Mollo read at the arraignment a letter he said young Bergdoll wrote to his draft board in August. It said:

"Herewith is the order, and also other paraphernalia I received today. I will not (underscored) report for physical examination on Monday; not on any other day, either!

"I will refuse to be inducted into the armed forces, if any attempt is made to induct me."

Two-Headed Baby Born In Youngstown, O

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 1. (AP)—A two-headed baby, with four arms was born today to the 19-year-old wife of a negro steel worker.

Dr. B. B. Burrowes said the child had a single abdomen and two legs.

The boy was reported responding to treatment in an incubator at Youngstown Southside hospital. He has not been weighed. Little hope was held that he would live.

Congress The Hope

Cluttered by lame ducks though it is, the special session of the 81st Congress will close the 150th year of the national legislative body in Washington, D. C. No previous session faced more grave problems, or was more ill equipped to meet them.

The first Congress convened in New York City in 1789, moved to Philadelphia in 1790 and created the District of Columbia as the seat of government. By 1800 the nation's capital was ready.

That year John Adams moved into the partially build "President's House" and the executive branch set up shop. The Post Office Department in those days had nine employes on the payroll. The executive department had a total of 69 employes, compared to more than 2,000,000 today.

When Congress met in Washington in 1800 only the north wing of the Capitol was in use. A tree was felled across a creek to give members access to the building. Washington then was a city of 400 little houses and a population of 3,000, land was 25 cents per square foot and Pennsylvania Avenue was a bush-covered morass.

John Adams said in his address to Congress: "In this city may piety and virtue, wisdom and magnanimity be forever held in veneration." And the House, in reply to the President's address, echoed his hope that the new seat of government would always be "the residence of happiness and virtue."

There is widespread comment, in and out of Congress, today on how well those high hopes have been fulfilled.

Congress is the hope of representative government. An executive department with too much power is an enemy of the people, while the integrity of the appointed Supreme Court depends on the integrity of those making the appointments. But Congress directly represents the people themselves, and when the voters fail to turn out members who are unfaithful to their constituents and become bootlickers for an overgrown and arrogant executive department which is also shot through with disloyalty, they fail to act at their peril.

More Cattle Needed

Farmers are paying 29 cents a pound for cattle suitable for fattening. That is eight per cent more than the peak in 1948 and 40 per cent more than a year ago. It is a precarious price setup that could crash with huge losses.

Yet feeders are buying heavily on the assumption that this will not happen. Ranchers are holding breeding stock off the market to increase their herds for long pull profits.

According to the bullish analysis, there is a big consumer demand for beef now and it will grow. As the rearmament industries swing into their full functions, there will be more consumer money to spend and increasing demand for meat.

There are 5,000,000 fewer cattle than during the last two years of World War II when beef was inadequate and rationed. In the meantime the population has increased along with purchasing power.

But if cattle prices continue to soar, there will be rising demand for price control. Stabilizing prices at the current level would be rough on the cattle feeders. If they find the going rough, they will decrease their herds and meat scarcity will be aggravated.

The United States must have more cattle for an increasing population.

Local Celebrities

John Bartlett achieved two immortal books, a concordance to Shakespeare's works and an index of quotations which has been used by countless literary workers. He was obviously a distinguished man. Yet a reminiscing old gentleman recalls being introduced to him after this manner: "This is Mr. Bartlett who keeps the drugstore on Massachusetts Avenue." That showed how he impressed his daily associates.

A surprising number of communities have had some noted author as a resident, and yet still disregard his value as an advertisement for the town. Paris, Ky., is not one of these. The Kentucky Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution has had the wisdom to open a museum for the late John Fox, Jr. Even those who do not associate Fox's name with anything in particular recollect his novels, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" and "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Born near Paris and dying there, Fox deserves a neighborhood commemoration. Despite his tendency to sentimentality, he portrayed successfully the Kentucky mountaineer, and on that account should not be forgotten.

New Farming Class

That a nation is no better or more progressive than its farmers is the idea of the new farm program being put forward in Iraq. That country's fertile lands from the earliest times have been under the control of tribal heads and other landlords who often have lived far from the thousands of acres of land which they owned. The present backward state of agricultural life in Iraq is due largely to abuses resulting from this system.

In an effort to form an independent, personally industrious agricultural middle class, the government of this Eastern country is sponsoring what amounts to an agrarian revolution. Plots of government land averaging about 60 acres are being assigned to families who must agree to work the land themselves under government instruction. Irrigation, drainage, machinery and marketing are to be carried out on a community basis for a ten-year trial period.

Such a project may be practical in a small country like Iraq, where supervision would be simpler than in larger Oriental countries. If it proves to be successful, a step will have been taken away from archaic customs and habits. Other nations with similar problems might then be inspired to follow the example.

Pumpkins And Buddhas

Even the most innocent objects are getting to be suspect. An example is the pumpkin containing secret official documents which helped to convict Alger Hiss of perjury. Now comes a report from Tibet that a Russian airborne party concealed a radio, a Geiger counter and radioactive rock in brass Buddhas, whose religious character would ordinarily entitle them to passage without question in such a thoroughly Buddist country as Tibet.

Americans have already been told, though not on the best authority, that a city conceivably could be blown up by an atomic bomb carried in an innocent-looking suitcase. Will the time come when a brief case or a purse will rouse suspicions of having illegal military contents?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Eye Headaches

ORDINARY headache frequently is blamed on the eyes or sinuses. But examination of these structures often fails to reveal an abnormality. The reason is that there are so many other causes of head pain. A clew to the origin can be obtained by analyzing the nature of the headache. Where it is located? What brings it on? At what time of the day or night is it most severe?

When sinus infection is the source, pain usually is located in and about the face. Occasionally it is felt in the back of the neck or behind the eyes. This type of distress may be associated with a head cold and there is tenderness of the forehead and cheeks.

Eyestrain headaches are almost without exception produced by near vision work. The person whose occupation does not require the use of the eyes within arm's length seldom is bothered. The nearsighted [myopic] generally escapes because he sees best when looking at nearby objects. It is the farsighted who are more likely candidates. They see well when looking in the distance but find it difficult to read or sew without glasses because the ensuing eyestrain leads to headache. The same happens occasionally to an individual who reads far into the night; he may awaken at 4:00 a. m. or later with a dull pain in the eyes. Headache in children is a rather common symptom but it is rarely caused by eyestrain. In most instances, the origin is emotional.

Ciliary hypertonicity is a peculiar eye condition which is partial to the 18-40 age group. These persons develope dull aching pain in the temples and forehead which tends to become worse as the day progresses. It is accompanied by smarting and burning of the eyes and sometimes blinking and is aggravated by reading. The eyes obviously are blamed and the majority of victims expect glasses to cure but "specs" purchased by the dozen will remain in the drawer because the visual part of the eyes is not at fault. There is irritation of strain of the muscles that open and close the pupils. Relief comes from using drops that dilate the pupil each night on retiring, with a mild astrigent eyewash in the day. Allergies affecting the conjunctive produce similar symptoms.

Various eye diseases cause pain. Glaucoma is one of the most serious. Headache appears suddenly and, once established, is constant and nagging. Rising tension within the eyeball is responsible which, unless relieved, may result in irreparable damage of the delicate retina. Iritis, or inflammation of the shutter mechanism, also gives rise to discomfort. The infected structure is inflamed and sensitive to light; pain is mild or marked, depending upon the severity of the inflammation. It may be most noticeable in the eye itself, around the orbit, or in the forehead. Iritis comes and goes and it not partial to any age group. The cause is unknown but many authorities believe it is the eye manifestation of a more generalized disease such as rheumatoid arthritis. Drugs that dilate the pupil offer quick and dramatic relief.

INSULIN INJECTIONS

M. R. writes: Do you think the day will ever come when insulin can be taken other than by hypos? It is torture to watch the mother of our diabetic grandson give these injections.

REPLY

I think the time will come when it will be possible to give insulin by mouth but up to now such a method has not been devised. I know physicians who have spent a large part of their lifetime trying to find a way of administering the hormone other than by hypodermic but so far they have failed. I'm sure you will agree that it is better for the child to be given "needles" than to have him die, as he would have done if insulin had not been discovered.

Acheson Blames MacArthur's Intelligence; Dewey Aspired To Be Ambassador To Great Britain; Wanted To Re-Establish Bipartisan Foreign Policy

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — In a highly secret conference with the Senate and House Foreign Relations committees, Secretary of State Dean Acheson warned that a third world war is "imminent," if not already in progress.

The Korean conflict might spread to Yugoslavia and possibly other points in Europe and Asia "at any moment," Acheson declared.

Asked if there were still time to avoid another world-wide conflict, the Secretary of State replied that it could be avoided only by prompt and concerted action against the Russian-Chinese Communist entente by our friends in the United Nations.

He mentioned trade sanctions against the Chinese Communists as one possible solution.

But Acheson added that we must also get economic aid to Yugoslavia as quickly as possible to stiffen the back of that drought-hit nation against Russia.

"All I can say now is that the situation is dangerous—very dangerous," Acheson asserted.

Under questioning by the House committee, Acheson bluntly charged that the Korean crisis is due in large part to General MacArthur's bungling military intelligence. He specifically mentioned that military intelligence officers had estimated that the Chinese army which invaded Korea would number at the most 60 or 65,000 troops; whereas the Chinese massed almost four times that number in the Korean offensive.

Acheson told the committee that this blunder might have been avoided if we had a strongly centralized and alert intelligence agency in Washington, instead of depending almost entirely on MacArthur's intelligence scouts.

Dewey And Acheson

It's been a carefully hushed-up secret between the State department and Albany, but last summer, Governor Dewey discussed with Secretary of State Acheson the idea of becoming American ambassador to Great Britain.

Although Governor Dewey's office refuses to discuss the matter, what happened with this. Early in the summer and before Dewey changed his mind about running for re-election, he asked for a meeting with Acheson. He specified that the meeting should be neither in the State department nor in the Roosevelt Hotel, Dewey's New York City headquarters; so the two met in the home of Roger Straus, president of the American Smelting and Refining Company whom Dewey had planned to make secretary of commerce if elected in 1948.

Dewey, long an admirer of Acheson, explained that he was becoming more and more worried about the bipartisan foreign policy which he felt was rapidly falling to pieces since the illness of Senator Vandenberg. And he said he would like to do something to help.

Dewey and Vandenberg have been quite friendly since 1944, and while the Michigan Senator's health was good he was in frequent telephone communication with the New York Governor. In fact, it was through Dewey that Vandenberg came to know and respect Dewey's foreign counselor, John Foster Dulles, now adviser to the State Department.

Ambassador Dewey

Dewey explained to Acheson, therefore, that with Vandenberg ill, he, Dewey, as titular leader of the Republican party, felt responsibility for foreign policy and that he would like to do this part toward re-establishing the bipartisanship which had now gone to pot.

Acheson expressed his appreciation. And out of their conversation grew the idea that Dewey would become ambassador to the Court of St. James, top diplomatic spot in the world; then, after acquiring experience in London, would return here to steer bipartisan foreign policy back on an even keel.

The Secretary of State made no actual promise of the London ambassadorship to Dewey. But he indicated he would talk things over at the White House and let him know.

Later, Dewey decided to run for a third term and the idea went up in smoke. However, the man who helped persuade Dewey to run for governor again, the Chase bank's Winthrop Aldrich, also knew of Dewey's foreign-policy plan, and out of this came the appointment of Walter Gifford, former head of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, to the post Dewey wanted—an appointment which has had all the politicians puzzled.

What most people don't know is that Acheson, despite the red label pinned on him by Republican senators, has long been Washington attorney for J. P. Morgan and the various Wall Street interests. He has also known Winthrop Aldrich and the Rockefeller group which dominates the Chase bank.

Therefore, when Dewey reneged on his budding ambassadorial career, he and his New York banking friends sold Acheson on Walter Gifford instead. That was how Truman happened to appoint a big money-raiser for Dewey to the most coveted of all diplomatic posts.

NOTE—Though Dewey wanted to promote the bipartisan foreign policy for his friend Acheson and though Gifford's appointment was sold to Truman with the understanding he would swing GOP support, it didn't work out that way at all. On the day before election, Dewey spent all day on the television vehemently denouncing his friend Acheson's foreign policy in China. It helped him clinch the election.

Baffled Harry Truman

The Dewey-Gifford maneuvering for the London embassy now explains why President Truman was so baffled when he called in James Bruce, of National Dairy Products, and asked Bruce to relieve him of an earlier commitment for the London embassy.

"A terrible thing has happened, Jim," Mr. Truman told Bruce. "The truth is, I've been outmaneuvered. It's a terrible thing to ask you, but I think I've got to ask you to release me from my commitment."

"You're in charge of foreign policy, Mr. President," replied Bruce. "It's your responsibility, and the most important one you have. If you've found a better man for this job, that's enough for me."

"No, that isn't exactly it," replied the President. "They've handed me someone I don't know. He's a fellow who's president of the telephone company."

"You mean William Harrison?" asked Bruce.

"No, I kind of forget the name," replied Mr. Truman.

"Could it be Sosthenes Behn?" said Bruce, referring to the head of International Telephone and Telegraph.

"No," replied the President.

"Well, is it Walter Gifford?"

"Yes," said Mr. Truman. "That's it."

"This is something that's got out of my control," concluded the President.

He never explained that Dewey had been considered for the ambassadorship, but that apparently was what was in the back of his mind.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

End Of The Road

WASHINGTON

WE have come to the end, or very nearly to the end, of the dark road of the post-war years. Perhaps the best symbol of how much has ended was the President's response to the first news of the fearful disaster in Korea. The always cheerful Truman, always so confident of peace, who had always said he would see Stalin in the White House and nowhere else, now actually proposed that he cross the ocean, meet with the Soviet dictator, and "lay it on the line."

The "it" referred to was of course the atomic bomb. The choice to be offered Stalin was, of course, the choice between peace and war. And if our mad folly had not left us with nothing but the atomic bomb to "lay on the line," the President's advisors might not have labored so hard to dissuade him from his project.

The episode, which may be denied but is undeniably authentic, means that we in America must look back upon the roaring '20s, and the hopeful '30s, and the victorious '40s, and say "good-bye to all that." It means that we are entering an iron decade, perhaps an iron half-century, in which all our accustomed pleasures, from television to partisanship, from juke boxes to self-delusion, must be sacrificed to the stern requirements of independence and survival.

Scope Undefined

Anyone who doubts this needs only to consider the broad tendencies already manifested in the anguished meetings of the National Security Council. Although the President was dissuaded from doing the job the simple way, it is deeply significant, for instance, that the early drafts of Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson's solemn speech to the nation actually contained something very like a conditional declaration of war, with the scope of the war left undefined.

We have now asked the Chinese, in somewhat milder language, to "come to their senses." But there are few reasons to hope that they will do so. Their contempt for the United Nations was sufficiently displayed in Ambassador Wu Hsiu-chan's first outburst at Lake Success. Their obedience to the Kremlin was revealed in Wu's' faithful parrotting of all Vishinsky's favorite phrases. And their long advance planning and preparation was indicated by the mere size of the Chinese military trap into which Gen. MacArthur has walked.

In these circumstances, it is worth recalling a report from Tokyo that appeared in this space some weeks ago, stating the Chinese would not intervene in Korea "unless the Kremlin actively desired to plunge the world into a third great war." At that time, the American experts were unanimously convinced the Kremlin would take no such risk. But the experts were wrong. And the fact that the Acheson speech was softened in its later drafts does not diminish the danger.

Dangerous Struggle

The reason for this is, in part, the same reason why the masters of the Kremlin have propelled their Chinese puppets across the Korean frontier. Nothing could be more dangerous or damaging, than for the United States to become involved in a costly struggle with the Chinese people, whose country does not even offer profitable targets for our only major weapon, the atomic bomb; whose divisions outnumber ours by a ratio of twenty to one. Until three days ago, you would not have found a single high official in Washington who did not prefer a showdown with Moscow to a war with China.

Even today, when weaker spirits are quailing before the brutal facts, the same sentiment generally prevails. There is no sentiment at all for mere feeble submission under the Chinese attack. If we refuse to submit, if the Chinese will not withdraw, if we reject a limited war with China, then the showdown with Moscow looms as the only eventual alternative. President Truman's instinct was not very different from the instinct of his advisors, even if the method of his project for a showdown drew protests from the men around him.

At this instant, when the enemy's response is unknown, when the degree of defection among our allies cannot be forecast, there is no way to read the future. The broad administration attitudes to each of the major alternatives, surrender, limited war with China, and showdown with Moscow, can be discerned as suggested; yet all is too dark and doubtful to make it possible to guess whether the alternative that is most or least favored today will in the end be chosen. Only one fact is clear.

This is the fact that the world struggle has moved into a wholly new phase, even if this new phase does not include open world war. Mobilization of the United States has already been decided upon, and only awaits the outcome of the debate at Lake Success. If time is granted to us before war comes, that time will now be used for an effort to build strength in the free world going far beyond anything that has been discussed or imagined before this moment. We are paying today for our failure to begin that effort long ago. Whatever happens, nothing must stand in the way of that effort now.

Fighting Will Be "Local War" For Present Time

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — Formal recognition of the existence of a "state of war" between Communist China and the United Nations cannot be long deferred. All-out war with Communist China seems now merely a matter of days. No action against Russia is contemplated, as no Russian units have entered the North Korean war zone.

If the U. N. Fails to act, then it may become necessary for President Truman to go before Congress and request the formal recognition of the existence of a "state of war" between the United States and China.

These are merely legal steps to formalize what has actually been going on for several weeks.

It was on November 6 that General MacArthur, as the U. N. commander-in-chief in the Far East, reported formally to the U. N. as follows.

"It is apparent to our fighting forces, and our intelligence agencies have confirmed the fact, that the United Nations are presently in hostile contact with Chinese Communist military units deployed for action against the forces of the united command.

Communist Given Advantage

"The continued employment of Chinese Communist forces in Korea and the hostile attitude assumed by such forces, either inside or outside Korea, are matters which it is incumbent upon me to bring at once to the attention of the United Nations.

In the interval since November 6 —more than three weeks—the U. N., by failing to act, has awarded a distinct military advantage to the Chinese Communists, giving them ample time to group together and send across the Manchurian border upward of 200,000 troops. If this is an example of the slow way the U. N. is going to function in a military crisis, it gives the totalitarian states a time advantage which in an atomic era could mean the difference between survival and destruction.

President Truman's resounding statement yesterday is in itself a warning to the U. N. that prompt action is desired by the American government. He says:

"The Chinese Communist leaders have sent their troops from Manchuria to launch a strong and well-organized attack against the United Nations forces in North Korea."

This simple declaration by the President of the United States now brings publicly to the attention of the U. N. a fact that can no longer be ignored. The troops of the U. N. are under attack. Will the U. N. fight back, as a single nation does when it is invaded? Will authorization for an all-out attack against Communist China be forthcoming? The President anticipates firm action thus:

"The forces of the United Nations have no intention of abandoning their mission in Korea..."

"If aggression is successful in Korea, we can expect it to spread through Asia and Europe to this hemisphere. We are fighting in Korea for our own national security and survival."

Mr. Truman excuses somewhat the delay between November 6 and today by saying that there had been hope of "discussion and negotiation" but he dismisses this at once by pointing to the character of the statements made by the representatives of Communist China before the U. N. this week. Mr. Truman asks now for immediate passage of the resolution presented by Ambassador Austin at the U. N., urging it to take action "to halt this aggression."

Two important moves have already been taken which inevitably must make an impression on the Communist world:

To Discuss Cooperation

First, Mr. Truman did not hesitate to answer a question saying use of the atom bomb was under consideration.

Second, he agreed to meet personally with Prime Minister Attlee in Washington to discuss coming steps of cooperation to fulfill the policy announced already with respect to Korea.

As to the military side, it seems reasonable to assume that the immediate attention will be given toward stabilizing the lines of our troops in North Korea. If the Chinese Communists subsequently ignore the demand by the U. N. for withdrawal, such military action as seems to promise the maximum of effectiveness will be ordered. This may result in aid to Chinese guerrillas and factions lined up against the Communists. The full force of American air power and sea power will be exerted in a war that may not come to a climax immediately but only after several months of buildup of Chinese anti-Communist armies wherever they may be recruited.

The sending of any more land armies from the outside to the mainland of China is not likely but the Chinese Communists may find that attacks in the south of China will necessitate the withdrawal of much of their forces now concentrated in Manchuria. For the present, it will be not a "world war," but a limited "local war" in the Far East only.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Expansion Of Power

SINCE the NRA days, the structural governmental problem which has faced the American people has been the constantly expanding power of the agencies of the federal government.

Some Americans accept expanding powers as inevitable, particularly when they bring them checks to which they know, in their hearts, they are not entitled. Others object to expansion, except when it serves their private purposes. For instance, the NRA was a "big business" operation to check the competition of small and newer enterprises. The Supreme Court threw it out on a case involving a little businessman engaged in selling live chickens wholesale.

Nevertheless, it is possible to say, in 1950, that the general consensus of American opinion is that the evidence does not justify further expansion of governmental power. The Brannan plan and Oscar Ewing's socialized medicine were issues in the last election and wherever they were local issues, the people voted against them.

Now in this matter of TV-color it is not really very important what kind of color scheme there is, if it works. Whether TV itself is important is yet to be seen. I hardly ever look at it and I note that my children are wearying of the barrel-scraping television shows. But the beginnings of anything are unsatisfactory and television is no exception.

Also, like so many new commodities, its advertising is often ridiculous, as perhaps it must be with a new commodity the worth of which is exaggerated. Whereas advertisements advocating parent-child conflicts have been withdrawn from the newspapers, they are being repeated on radio. It is stupid, but nothing to get excited about.

When, however, a government agency goes beyond its legal authority, that is something for excitement and even anger. The FCC is a regulatory body of limited scope having no authority over the manufacture of devices. This is as it should be, for in our system of life invention and competition have given to us all our material advantages.

For instance, as I write this with a fountain pen, I cannot help thinking that since man began to put words on paper or cloth or papyrus —choose your vehicle—he put the pen into the ink. Then along came somebody who decided to put the ink into the pen.

It was not a necessary invention. We could all live without it. But it turned out to be a convenience and is now universally used wherever folks bother to write.

Had some government agency been in authority at the time the fountain pen first appeared, it might have objected on the grounds of lack of necessity or on the grounds that its own engineer had produced something different and he must have precedence because he is their engineer.

That did not happen. Instead, all sorts of pens, some of them very queer and peculiar, appeared in the market place, and competition determined which would survive.

Congress has never given to any agency of government the authority to restrict the inventiveness of the American mind. Neither the FCC nor the FTC nor any agency has a legal right to say to an American that he cannot experiment, invent, try out or by some other means seek

Congress The Hope

Cluttered by lame ducks though it is, the special session of the 81st Congress will close the 150th year of the national legislative body in Washington, D. C. No previous session faced more grave problems, or was more ill equipped to meet them.

The first Congress convened in New York City in 1789, moved to Philadelphia in 1790 and created the District of Columbia as the seat of government. By 1800 the nation's capital was ready.

That year John Adams moved into the partially build "President's House" and the executive branch set up shop. The Post Office Department in those days had nine employes on the payroll. The executive department had a total of 69 employes, compared to more than 2,000,000 today.

When Congress met in Washington in 1800 only the north wing of the Capitol was in use. A tree was felled across a creek to give members access to the building. Washington then was a city of 400 little houses and a population of 3,000, land was 25 cents per square foot and Pennsylvania Avenue was a bush-covered morass.

John Adams said in his address to Congress: "In this city may piety and virtue, wisdom and magnanimity be forever held in veneration." And the House, in reply to the President's address, echoed his hope that the new seat of government would always be "the residence of happiness and virtue."

There is widespread comment, in and out of Congress, today on how well those high hopes have been fulfilled.

Congress is the hope of representative government. An executive department with too much power is an enemy of the people, while the integrity of the appointed Supreme Court depends on the integrity of those making the appointments. But Congress directly represents the people themselves, and when the voters fail to turn out members who are unfaithful to their constituents and become bootlickers for an overgrown and arrogant executive department which is also shot through with disloyalty, they fail to act at their peril.

More Cattle Needed

Farmers are paying 29 cents a pound for cattle suitable for fattening. That is eight per cent more than the peak in 1948 and 40 per cent more than a year ago. It is a precarious price setup that could crash with huge losses.

Yet feeders are buying heavily on the assumption that this will not happen. Ranchers are holding breeding stock off the market to increase their herds for long pull profits.

According to the bullish analysis, there is a big consumer demand for beef now and it will grow. As the rearmament industries swing into their full functions, there will be more consumer money to spend and increasing demand for meat.

There are 5,000,000 fewer cattle than during the last two years of World War II when beef was inadequate and rationed. In the meantime the population has increased along with purchasing power.

But if cattle prices continue to soar, there will be rising demand for price control. Stabilizing prices at the current level would be rough on the cattle feeders. If they find the going rough, they will decrease their herds and meat scarcity will be aggravated.

The United States must have more cattle for an increasing population.

Local Celebrities

John Bartlett achieved two immortal books, a concordance to Shakespeare's works and an index of quotations which has been used by countless literary workers. He was obviously a distinguished man. Yet a reminiscing old gentleman recalls being introduced to him after this manner: "This is Mr. Bartlett who keeps the drugstore on Massachusetts Avenue." That showed how he impressed his daily associates.

A surprising number of communities have had some noted author as a resident, and yet still disregard his value as an advertisement for the town. Paris, Ky., is not one of these. The Kentucky Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution has had the wisdom to open a museum for the late John Fox, Jr. Even those who do not associate Fox's name with anything in particular recollect his novels, "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" and "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Born near Paris and dying there, Fox deserves a neighborhood commemoration. Despite his tendency to sentimentality, he portrayed successfully the Kentucky mountaineer, and on that account should not be forgotten.

New Farming Class

That a nation is no better or more progressive than its farmers is the idea of the new farm program being put forward in Iraq. That country's fertile lands from the earliest times have been under the control of tribal heads and other landlords who often have lived far from the thousands of acres of land which they owned. The present backward state of agricultural life in Iraq is due largely to abuses resulting from this system.

In an effort to form an independent, personally industrious agricultural middle class, the government of this Eastern country is sponsoring what amounts to an agrarian revolution. Plots of government land averaging about 60 acres are being assigned to families who must agree to work the land themselves under government instruction. Irrigation, drainage, machinery and marketing are to be carried out on a community basis for a ten-year trial period.

Such a project may be practical in a small country like Iraq, where supervision would be simpler than in larger Oriental countries. If it proves to be successful, a step will have been taken away from archaic customs and habits. Other nations with similar problems might then be inspired to follow the example.

Pumpkins And Buddhas

Even the most innocent objects are getting to be suspect. An example is the pumpkin containing secret official documents which helped to convict Alger Hiss of perjury. Now comes a report from Tibet that a Russian airborne party concealed a radio, a Geiger counter and radioactive rock in brass Buddhas, whose religious character would ordinarily entitle them to passage without question in such a thoroughly Buddist country as Tibet.

Americans have already been told, though not on the best authority, that a city conceivably could be blown up by an atomic bomb carried in an innocent-looking suitcase. Will the time come when a brief case or a purse will rouse suspicions of having illegal military contents?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Eye Headaches

ORDINARY headache frequently is blamed on the eyes or sinuses. But examination of these structures often fails to reveal an abnormality. The reason is that there are so many other causes of head pain. A clew to the origin can be obtained by analyzing the nature of the headache. Where it is located? What brings it on? At what time of the day or night is it most severe?

When sinus infection is the source, pain usually is located in and about the face. Occasionally it is felt in the back of the neck or behind the eyes. This type of distress may be associated with a head cold and there is tenderness of the forehead and cheeks.

Eyestrain headaches are almost without exception produced by near vision work. The person whose occupation does not require the use of the eyes within arm's length seldom is bothered. The nearsighted [myopic] generally escapes because he sees best when looking at nearby objects. It is the farsighted who are more likely candidates. They see well when looking in the distance but find it difficult to read or sew without glasses because the ensuing eyestrain leads to headache. The same happens occasionally to an individual who reads far into the night; he may awaken at 4:00 a. m. or later with a dull pain in the eyes. Headache in children is a rather common symptom but it is rarely caused by eyestrain. In most instances, the origin is emotional.

Ciliary hypertonicity is a peculiar eye condition which is partial to the 18-40 age group. These persons develope dull aching pain in the temples and forehead which tends to become worse as the day progresses. It is accompanied by smarting and burning of the eyes and sometimes blinking and is aggravated by reading. The eyes obviously are blamed and the majority of victims expect glasses to cure but "specs" purchased by the dozen will remain in the drawer because the visual part of the eyes is not at fault. There is irritation of strain of the muscles that open and close the pupils. Relief comes from using drops that dilate the pupil each night on retiring, with a mild astrigent eyewash in the day. Allergies affecting the conjunctive produce similar symptoms.

Various eye diseases cause pain. Glaucoma is one of the most serious. Headache appears suddenly and, once established, is constant and nagging. Rising tension within the eyeball is responsible which, unless relieved, may result in irreparable damage of the delicate retina. Iritis, or inflammation of the shutter mechanism, also gives rise to discomfort. The infected structure is inflamed and sensitive to light; pain is mild or marked, depending upon the severity of the inflammation. It may be most noticeable in the eye itself, around the orbit, or in the forehead. Iritis comes and goes and it not partial to any age group. The cause is unknown but many authorities believe it is the eye manifestation of a more generalized disease such as rheumatoid arthritis. Drugs that dilate the pupil offer quick and dramatic relief.

I think the time will come when it will be possible to give insulin by mouth but up to now such a method has not been devised. I know physicians who have spent a large part of their lifetime trying to find a way of administering the hormone other than by hypodermic but so far they have failed. I'm sure you will agree that it is better for the child to be given "needles" than to have him die, as he would have done if insulin had not been discovered.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Acheson Blames MacArthur's Intelligence; Dewey Aspired To Be Ambassador To Great Britain; Wanted To Re-Establish Bipartisan Foreign Policy

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — In a highly secret conference with the Senate and House Foreign Relations committees, Secretary of State Dean Acheson warned that a third world war is "imminent," if not already in progress.

The Korean conflict might spread to Yugoslavia and possibly other points in Europe and Asia "at any moment," Acheson declared.

Asked if there were still time to avoid another world-wide conflict, the Secretary of State replied that it could be avoided only by prompt and concerted action against the Russian-Chinese Communist entente by our friends in the United Nations.

He mentioned trade sanctions against the Chinese Communists as one possible solution.

But Acheson added that we must also get economic aid to Yugoslavia as quickly as possible to stiffen the back of that drought-hit nation against Russia.

"All I can say now is that the situation is dangerous—very dangerous," Acheson asserted.

Under questioning by the House committee, Acheson bluntly charged that the Korean crisis is due in large part to General MacArthur's bungling military intelligence. He specifically mentioned that military intelligence officers had estimated that the Chinese army which invaded Korea would number at the most 60 or 65,000 troops; whereas the Chinese massed almost four times that number in the Korean offensive.

Acheson told the committee that this blunder might have been avoided if we had a strongly centralized and alert intelligence agency in Washington, instead of depending almost entirely on MacArthur's intelligence scouts.

Dewey And Acheson

It's been a carefully hushed-up secret between the State department and Albany, but last summer, Governor Dewey discussed with Secretary of State Acheson the idea of becoming American ambassador to Great Britain.

Although Governor Dewey's office refuses to discuss the matter, what happened with this. Early in the summer and before Dewey changed his mind about running for re-election, he asked for a meeting with Acheson. He specified that the meeting should be neither in the State department nor in the Roosevelt Hotel, Dewey's New York City headquarters; so the two met in the home of Roger Straus, president of the American Smelting and Refining Company whom Dewey had planned to make secretary of commerce if elected in 1948.

Dewey, long an admirer of Acheson, explained that he was becoming more and more worried about the bipartisan foreign policy which he felt was rapidly falling to pieces since the illness of Senator Vandenberg. And he said he would like to do something to help.

Dewey and Vandenberg have been quite friendly since 1944, and while the Michigan Senator's health was good he was in frequent telephone communication with the New York Governor. In fact, it was through Dewey that Vandenberg came to know and respect Dewey's foreign counselor, John Foster Dulles, now adviser to the State Department.

Ambassador Dewey

Dewey explained to Acheson, therefore, that with Vandenberg ill, he, Dewey, as titular leader of the Republican party, felt responsibility for foreign policy and that he would like to do this part toward re-establishing the bipartisanship which had now gone to pot.

Acheson expressed his appreciation. And out of their conversation grew the idea that Dewey would become ambassador to the Court of St. James, top diplomatic spot in the world; then, after acquiring experience in London, would return here to steer bipartisan foreign policy back on an even keel.

The Secretary of State made no actual promise of the London ambassadorship to Dewey. But he indicated he would talk things over at the White House and let him know.

Later, Dewey decided to run for a third term and the idea went up in smoke. However, the man who helped persuade Dewey to run for governor again, the Chase bank's Winthrop Aldrich, also knew of Dewey's foreign-policy plan, and out of this came the appointment of Walter Gifford, former head of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, to the post Dewey wanted—an appointment which has had all the politicians puzzled.

What most people don't know is that Acheson, despite the red label pinned on him by Republican senators, has long been Washington attorney for J. P. Morgan and the various Wall Street interests. He has also known Winthrop Aldrich and the Rockefeller group which dominates the Chase bank.

Therefore, when Dewey reneged on his budding ambassadorial career, he and his New York banking friends sold Acheson on Walter Gifford instead. That was how Truman happened to appoint a big money-raiser for Dewey to the most coveted of all diplomatic posts.

NOTE—Though Dewey wanted to promote the bipartisan foreign policy for his friend Acheson and though Gifford's appointment was sold to Truman with the understanding he would swing GOP support, it didn't work out that way at all. On the day before election, Dewey spent all day on the television vehemently denouncing his friend Acheson's foreign policy in China. It helped him clinch the election.

Baffled Harry Truman

The Dewey-Gifford maneuvering for the London embassy now explains why President Truman was so baffled when he called in James Bruce, of National Dairy Products, and asked Bruce to relieve him of an earlier commitment for the London embassy.

"A terrible thing has happened, Jim," Mr. Truman told Bruce. "The truth is, I've been outmaneuvered. It's a terrible thing to ask you, but I think I've got to ask you to release me from my commitment."

"You're in charge of foreign policy, Mr. President," replied Bruce. "It's your responsibility, and the most important one you have. If you've found a better man for this job, that's enough for me."

"No, that isn't exactly it," replied the President. "They've handed me someone I don't know. He's a fellow who's president of the telephone company."

"You mean William Harrison?" asked Bruce.

"No, I kind of forget the name," replied Mr. Truman.

"Could it be Sosthenes Behn?" said Bruce, referring to the head of International Telephone and Telegraph.

"No," replied the President.

"Well, is it Walter Gifford?"

"Yes," said Mr. Truman. "That's it."

"This is something that's got out of my control," concluded the President.

He never explained that Dewey had been considered for the ambassadorship, but that apparently was what was in the back of his mind.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

End Of The Road

WASHINGTON

WE have come to the end, or very nearly to the end, of the dark road of the post-war years. Perhaps the best symbol of how much has ended was the President's response to the first news of the fearful disaster in Korea. The always cheerful Truman, always so confident of peace, who had always said he would see Stalin in the White House and nowhere else, now actually proposed that he cross the ocean, meet with the Soviet dictator, and "lay it on the line."

The "it" referred to was of course the atomic bomb. The choice to be offered Stalin was, of course, the choice between peace and war. And if our mad folly had not left us with nothing but the atomic bomb to "lay on the line," the President's advisors might not have labored so hard to dissuade him from his project.

The episode, which may be denied but is undeniably authentic, means that we in America must look back upon the roaring '20s, and the hopeful '30s, and the victorious '40s, and say "good-bye to all that." It means that we are entering an iron decade, perhaps an iron half-century, in which all our accustomed pleasures, from television to partisanship, from juke boxes to self-delusion, must be sacrificed to the stern requirements of independence and survival.

Scope Undefined

Anyone who doubts this needs only to consider the broad tendencies already manifested in the anguished meetings of the National Security Council. Although the President was dissuaded from doing the job the simple way, it is deeply significant, for instance, that the early drafts of Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson's solemn speech to the nation actually contained something very like a conditional declaration of war, with the scope of the war left undefined.

We have now asked the Chinese, in somewhat milder language, to "come to their senses." But there are few reasons to hope that they will do so. Their contempt for the United Nations was sufficiently displayed in Ambassador Wu Hsiuchan's first outburst at Lake Success. Their obedience to the Kremlin was revealed in Wu's faithful parrotting of all Vishinsky's favorite phrases. And their long advance planning and preparation was indicated by the mere size of the Chinese military trap into which Gen. MacArthur has walked.

In these circumstances, it is worth recalling a report from Tokyo that appeared in this space some weeks ago, stating the Chinese would not intervene in Korea "unless the Kremlin actively desired to plunge the world into a third great war." At that time, the American experts were unanimously convinced the Kremlin would take no such risk. But the experts were wrong. And the fact that the Acheson speech was softened in its later drafts does not diminish the danger.

Dangerous Struggle

The reason for this is, in part, the same reason why the masters of the Kremlin have propelled their Chinese puppets across the Korean frontier. Nothing could be more dangerous or damaging, than for the United States to become involved in a costly struggle with the Chinese people, whose country does not even offer profitable targets for our only major weapon, the atomic bomb; whose divisions outnumber ours by a ratio of twenty to one. Until three days ago, you would not have found a single high official in Washington who did not prefer a showdown with Moscow to a war with China.

Even today, when weaker spirits are quailing before the brutal facts, the same sentiment generally prevails. There is no sentiment at all for mere feeble submission under the Chinese attack. If we refuse to submit, if the Chinese will not withdraw, if we reject a limited war with China, then the showdown with Moscow looms as the only eventual alternative. President Truman's instinct was not very different from the instinct of his advisors, even if the method of his project for a showdown drew protests from the men around him.

At this instant, when the enemy's response is unknown, when the degree of defection among our allies cannot be forecast, there is no way to read the future. The broad administration attitudes to each of the major alternatives, surrender, limited war with China, and showdown with Moscow, can be discerned as suggested; yet all is too dark and doubtful to make it possible to guess whether the alternative that is most or least favored today will in the end be chosen. Only one fact is clear.

This is the fact that the world struggle has moved into a wholly new phase, even if this new phase does not include open world war. Mobilization of the United States has already been decided upon, and only awaits the outcome of the debate at Lake Success. If time is granted to us before war comes, that time will now be used for an effort to build strength in the free world going far beyond anything that has been discussed or imagined before this moment. We are paying today for our failure to begin that effort long ago. Whatever happens, nothing must stand in the way of that effort now.

Fighting Will Be "Local War" For Present Time

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 1 — Formal recognition of the existence of a "state of war" between Communist China and the United Nations cannot be long deferred. All-out war with Communist China seems now merely a matter of days. No action against Russia is contemplated, as no Russian units have entered the North Korean war zone.

If the U. N. Fails to act, then it may become necessary for President Truman to go before Congress and request the formal recognition of the existence of a "state of war" between the United States and China.

These are merely legal steps to formalize what has actually been going on for several weeks.

It was on November 6 that General MacArthur, as the U. N. commander-in-chief in the Far East, reported formally to the U. N. as follows.

"It is apparent to our fighting forces, and our intelligence agencies have confirmed the fact, that the United Nations are presently in hostile contact with Chinese Communist military units deployed for action against the forces of the united command.

Communist Given Advantage

"The continued employment of Chinese Communist forces in Korea and the hostile attitude assumed by such forces, either inside or outside Korea, are matters which it is incumbent upon me to bring at once to the attention of the United Nations.

In the interval since November 6—more than three weeks—the U. N., by failing to act, has awarded a distinct military advantage to the Chinese Communists, giving them ample time to group together and send across the Manchurian border upward of 200,000 troops. If this is an example of the slow way the U. N. is going to function in a military crisis, it gives the totalitarian states a time advantage which in an atomic era could mean the difference between survival and destruction.

President Truman's resounding statement yesterday is in itself a warning to the U. N. that prompt action is desired by the American government. He says:

"The Chinese Communist leaders have sent their troops from Manchuria to launch a strong and well-organized attack against the United Nations forces in North Korea."

This simple declaration by the President of the United States now brings publicly to the attention of the U. N. a fact that can no longer be ignored. The troops of the U. N. are under attack. Will the U. N. fight back, as a single nation does when it is invaded? Will authorization for an all-out attack against Communist China be forthcoming? The President anticipates firm action thus:

"The forces of the United Nations have no intention of abandoning their mission in Korea..."

"If aggression is successful in Korea, we can expect it to spread through Asia and Europe to this hemisphere. We are fighting in Korea for our own national security and survival."

Mr. Truman excuses somewhat the delay between November 6 and today by saying that there had been hope of "discussion and negotiation" but he dismisses this at once by pointing to the character of the statements made by the representatives of Communist China before the U. N. this week. Mr. Truman asks now for immediate passage of the resolution presented by Ambassador Austin at the U. N., urging it to take action "to halt this aggression."

Two important moves have already been taken which inevitably must make an impression on the Communist world:

To Discuss Cooperation

First, Mr. Truman did not hesitate to answer a question saying use of the atom bomb was under consideration.

Second, he agreed to meet personally with Prime Minister Attlee in Washington to discuss coming steps of cooperation to fulfill the policy announced already with respect to Korea.

As to the military side, it seems reasonable to assume that the immediate attention will be given toward stabilizing the lines of our troops in North Korea. If the Chinese Communists subsequently ignore the demand by the U. N. for withdrawal, such military action as seems to promise the maximum of effectiveness will be ordered. This may result in aid to Chinese guerrillas and factions lined up against the Communists. The full force of American air power and sea power will be exerted in a war that may not come to a climax immediately but only after several months of buildup of Chinese anti-Communist armies wherever they may be recruited.

The sending of any more land armies from the outside to the mainland of China is not likely but the Chinese Communists may find that attacks in the south of China will necessitate the withdrawal of much of their forces now concentrated in Manchuria. For the present, it will be not a "world war," but a limited "local war" in the Far East only.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Expansion Of Power

SINCE the NRA days, the structural governmental problem which has faced the American people has been the constantly expanding power of the agencies of the federal government.

Some Americans accept expanding powers as inevitable, particularly when they bring them checks to which they know, in their hearts, they are not entitled. Others object to expansion, except when it serves their private purposes. For instance, the NRA was a "big business" operation to check the competition of small and newer enterprises. The Supreme Court threw it out on a case involving a little businessman engaged in selling live chickens wholesale.

Nevertheless, it is possible to say, in 1950, that the general consensus of American opinion is that the evidence does not justify further expansion of governmental power. The Brannan plan and Oscar Ewing's socialized medicine were issues in the last election and wherever they were local issues, the people voted against them.

Now in this matter of TV-color it is not really very important what kind of color scheme there is, if it works. Whether TV itself is important is yet to be seen. I hardly ever look at it and I note that my children are wearying of the barrel-scraping television shows. But the beginnings of anything are unsatisfactory and television is no exception.

Also, like so many new commodities, its advertising is often ridiculous, as perhaps it must be with a new commodity the worth of which is exaggerated. Whereas advertisements advocating parent-child conflicts have been withdrawn from the newspapers, they are being repeated on radio. It is stupid, but nothing to get excited about.

When, however, a government agency goes beyond its legal authority, that is something for excitement and even anger. The FCC is a regulatory body of limited scope having no authority over the manufacture of devices. This is as it should be, for in our system of life invention and competition have given to us all our material advantages.

For instance, as I write this with a fountain pen, I cannot help thinking that since man began to put words on paper or cloth or papyrus—choose your vehicle—he put the pen into the ink. Then along came somebody who decided to put the ink into the pen.

It was not a necessary invention. We could all live without it. But it turned out to be a convenience and is now universally used wherever folks bother to write.

Had some government agency been in authority at the time the fountain pen first appeared, it might have objected on the grounds of lack of necessity or on the grounds that its own engineer had produced something different and he must have precedence because he is their engineer.

That did not happen. Instead, all sorts of pens, some of them very queer and peculiar, appeared in the market place, and competition determined which would survive.

Congress has never given to any agency of government the authority to restrict the inventiveness of the American mind. Neither the FCC nor the FTC nor any agency has a legal right to say to an American that he cannot experiment, invent try out or by some other means seek

Building Fund Is Sought For Mt. Savage School

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of county schools, this morning requested the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to make available $400,000 within 30 days for use in paying for part of the contract cost of the new Mt. Savage High School, which is under construction.

The funds are in U. S. government certificate and may be obtained by the county board by calling on the local bank which has the funds on deposit.

The board turned over Kopp's letter to Mrs. Johanna Sills, county auditor, who will arrange for obtaining the money from the banking institution.

Cost of the new school is over $1,000,000. It has been under construction for some time. It is hoped to have the structure completed for use by the opening of the 1951-52 school term in September of next year.

Kopp also asked the county board to arrange to turn over $5,000, which the county received from the State Board of Education for the purchase of several plots of land in Frostburg.

The $5,000, together with $12,000, which the Allegany County Board of Education has received in the sale of the Lincoln School building, will be used in buying a new site for the Lincoln School and erection of a new building.

The two parcels of land, slightly over four acres in size, have been purchased by the State Board of Education for use in the expansion program at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Elected County Officials Get Commissions

The commissions of various county officials were delivered to the Court House just before noon today by Sgt. Harry Holsinger, acting commander of the LaVale Barracks of the State Police.

The commissions, signed by Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., contain the state seal and are printed on heavy bond paper.

Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden said he does not know when the oath of office will be given to the various officials, as he himself has to be sworn in by one of the judges of Circuit Court before administering the oath to the others.

Associate Judge Henderson is in Hagerstown today and Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., had left the court before the commissions arrived.

The oath may be administered tomorrow. Morgan C. Harris, newly-elected associate judge replacing Judge Bruce, will be sworn into office tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the Court House.

Other elected officials may be sworn in by Clerk Boden following this ceremony.

Commissions received today include those for Harris, Boden, A. Charles Stewart, register of wills; Judges J. French VanMeter, William A. Abbott and Hugh Stevenson, of Orphans Court; James G. Stevenson, clerk to the County Commissioners; James Orr, William H. Lemmert, and James Holmes, county commissioners; and Sheriff Edward R. Muir.

Area Soldiers Are Korean Casualties

Two more area soldiers have been placed on the casualty list in the Korean War.

Pvt. Paul L. Smith, of Clarysville, son of James Smith and brother of Mrs. Hilary Brode, has been reported missing in action since November 4.

He enlisted for 18 months service on January 18, 1947 and trained in New Mexico. On July 27, 1950 he was recalled to service and assigned to Fort Knox, Ky. Later he went to Fort Lawton, Wash., and then was sent overseas. He arrived in Japan on September 16 and in Korea on September 20. Pvt. Smith is a member of the Eighth Cavalry Regiment.

Pfc. Delbert A. Reckart, son of Mrs. Thelda Reckart, of Friendsville, has been wounded in action in Korea.

The Democrats figure in Mr. Hickenlooper's year book as changing the course of the Gulf Stream, subsidizing the drought and encouraging slow leaks in rear tires.

•—•—•

Hicky is a dead-in-the-wool Republican who blames the administration for everything, including himself.

•—•—•

He comes to a slow boil and must stay hot until 1952. Getting mad at the Democrats is an all-year round sport. They're always in season.

We agree with Hicky on most of his charges. There isn't anything the Democrats have not done. That's because nobody else has gotten a chance to do it for the last 18 years.

Potomac State Opens Tonight; Spas Face Johnstown Sunday

Altoona Quint To Meet Cats At Keyser Gym

Cats Open 26-Game Schedule At 8 P. M., Pence, Hahn To Work

Potomac State's Catamounts will launch their 1950-51 basketball schedule of 26 games tonight when they play hosts to the cagers of Altoona Branch of Penn State College at Keyser at 8 o'clock.

Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's squad played a practice game with the Cumberland Spas last night and made a creditable showing against their more experienced opponents. The Catamounts' mentor expressed his thanks to Coach William V. "Bill" Keegan and said he felt the experience was worth a lot to his team.

Lough, who is starting his 16th year as coach at the Keyser school, stated yesterday that he is uncertain as to the starting lineup for tonight's contest. Boyd Pyles had not returned to school because of weather conditions and may not get into the first game. Ted Lauer and Gussie Fisher will start because of their experience. There will be at least two freshmen in the starting lineup.

Potomac State is expected to match Altoona Branch in height but will be outclassed in experience.

There will be a preliminary game at 7 o'clock.

Bob Pence and Bill Hahn will officiate in the main contest.

The entire Catamount team will attend the basketball clinic at the Central YMCA today.

Ray Famechon Stops Devino

French Boxer Wins In 7th At Garden

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP) — Ray Famechon, the sharp-shooting European featherweight champ from France, put on a dazzling boxing show before he stopped young Archie Devino of Newark, N. J., tonight in 2:43 of the seventh round at Madison Square Garden. Famechon weighed 127¾, Devino 129.

The Frenchman made up for his dull American debut against Willie Pep last St. Patrick's Day by completely outclassing Devino in tonight's scheduled 10 rounder.

Referee Petey Scalzo gathered Devino in his arms as he came off the floor, glassy-eyed, after taking a nine count in the seventh.

Famechon's raking left hand, one of the best seen around the Garden in some time, set up young Devino for the kill. But it was his right hand punch that did the final job.

Two raking rights to the head stunned Devino as he dropped down on hands and knees. He just did beat the count but was obviously in no condition to coninue.

Fighting out of a crouch, with his hands high to protect his head, Famecon did a workmanlike job on 22-year-old Devino. He flicked that left jab to the head, crossed the right to the head, sunk a straight left to the stomach in a bewildering attack.

Arthur H. Malloy Taken By Death

Played And Coached At Mt. St. Mary's

EMMITSBURG, Md., Dec. 1 (AP) — One of the brightest athletic stars Mt. St. Mary's College ever had, Arthur H. Malloy, died at his home here today.

The 58-year-old coach and athletic director had been ill for 18 months. His death came at 5 a.m. after a heart attack.

Msgr. John L. Sheridan, president of the Catholic school, said Mt. St. Mary's had lost the greatest athlete ever to study here.

Malloy was a native of Wilmington, Del., and graduated from Mt. St. Mary's in 1913 after starring in football, basketball, and baseball.

He returned here as head coach in 1924 after a long stretch in a similar job at Salesianum School at Wilmington. He later became athletic director.

He had taken time out from his coaching job at Wilmington to serve in the army during World War I, and soon after Pearl Harbor he resigned here to become director of the U. S. O. at Ft. duPont, Del.

He came back to Mt. St. Mary's in 1946 to resume as athletic director, but he had to retire in 1948 because of his health.

Survivors include the widow and a sister, Miss Sarah Malloy of Wilmington.

The body will lie in state at the college administration building Sunday. A requiem mass will be offered at St. Anthony's Shrine at 10 a. m. Monday. Burial will follow in Cathedral Cemetery in Wilmington, Del.

Frank Stranahan Ties Dick Mayer At Halfway Mark

Post 8-Under-Par 132s In Miami Open Meet

By JAMES F. FOWLER

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP) — Amateur Frank Stranahan and Dick Mayer, 27-year-old professional, tied for the lead at the end of the second round of the $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament today with 8 under par 132s.

Stranahan, former British Open champion and winner of the Miami tournamen two years ago, carded a five under par 33-32—65 over the long Miami Springs golf course to add to his 67 first round score.

Mayer, of Old Greenwich, Conn., who has yet to win a major tournament, also carded a 65.

Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, Tex., and Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., shared the second low scores at 133 strokes for 36 holes.

Sam Snead, top money winner of the year from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had the most erratic round of the day. Still using borrowed clubs, he was one over par on four holes and still came in with a four under par 66, clocking up an eagle and six birdies.

Sixty-Six Make Grade

It took a score of 144-four over par — or lower for the professionals to remain in the last 36 holes of the tournament. Sixty-six made the grade. Amateurs who carded 149 or lower got under the line. An even dozen made it.

Joe Kirkwood, Jr., part time movie star from Daytona Beach, Fla. took one over par fives on the last two holes and finished with a 34-34—68. He was tied for the lead yesterday with Turnesa.

Defending champion Freddie Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, La., was far off the form that gave him a record breaking win last year with a 264. For the second straight day he carded a one over par 71 to give him an aggregate of 142.

Sam Snead Gets 135

Bunched at 135s were Snead, Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, Calif.; Art Wall, Jr., Bronxville, N. Y., and John Barnum, Cedar Rapids, Mich.

Marty Furgol of North Hollywood, Calif., repeated the 68 he shot in the first round and was alone at 136.

Seven pros grouped at 137. They were Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N. C.; Dave Douglas, Newark, Del.; Cary Middlecoff, Ormond Beach, Fla.; Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill.; Doug Ford, Briarcliff, N. Y.; Walter Burkemo, Franklin Hill, Mich., and Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y.

Forty-two of the 153 pros and amateurs competing equalled or bettered par.

Oklahoma, Tennessee, Army Favored In Today's Games

Pitt, Notre Dame Also Are Choices

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—College football fires its final salvos on a national scale tomorrow with Oklahoma and Army dominating the fireworks as usual.

Tennessee and Georgia, two bowl-bound teams, also are listed for strenuous action, along with a scattering of other grid big shots.

More than 100,000 fans, including President Truman, will pack Philadelphia's mammoth Municipal Stadium to watch the two service elevens bang heads in their customary slambang style.

Army's all-winning cadets, rated second to Oklahoma among the gridiron's powers, are 20-point choices to run their unbeaten string through 29 games. Two ties mar the Cadets' record and one of them is the memorable 21-21 deadlock of '48.

Seek 32nd Straight

Oklahoma's Sugar Bowl-bound Sooners will be seeking their 32nd straight victory, a notable string which includes two prized Sugar Bowl triumphs, against Oklahoma A & M.

The nation's No. 1 team, Oklahoma has been made a favorite over the Aggies.

Tennessee, (9-1-0) riding high after its brilliant success over Kentucky, bumps into the dangerous Commodores of Vanderbilt (7-3) at Nashville.

Georgia's Bulldogs (6-1-3), who face Texas A & M in the Washington Presidential Cup Game Dec. 9 oppose Georgia Tech (4-6) in the battle of the Peach State.

Tennessee is favored by 14 points and Georgia by 11.

In other major games North Carolina is favored by five over Virginia; Pittsburgh by six over Penn State; Mississippi State by 6½ over Mississippi; Fordham by 6½ over Syracuse; Southern Methodist by seven over Texas Christian; Baylor by seven over Rice; Holy Cross by seven over Boston College; Tulane by 13 over Louisiana State; Alabama by 27½ over Auburn; and Notre Dame by 11 over Southern California.

The Notre-Dame-Southern California tilt winds up one of the sorriest seasons for both teams, once the kingpins of their sectors. Notre Dame is 4-3-1 and Southern Cal 1-2-5.

Other games on the schedule include Maryland-Virginia Tech, Kansas State-Wichita, Tulsa-Houston, Richmond-William and Mary, Quantico Marines-College of Pacific and four minor bowls.

Four Bowl Games

The Orange Blossom at Miami matches Florida A & M and Wilberforce State; the Refrigerator at Evansville, Ind., pits Gustavus Adolphus against Abilene Christian; the Potato at Bakersfield, Calif., sends Olympic JC against Bakersfield JC; and the Paper Bowl at Pensacola, Fla., pairs Jacksonville (Ala) Teachers and the Pensacola Cardinals.

When Nat Stole Show • • • Change Angling Laws

Barton Gives Views • • • Yes, Joe Was On Deck

By C. V. BURNS

"Do you remember the year the Tri-State Mine and Mill Supply Company basketball team played the Original Celtics of New York here and Nat Hickey "stole the show" with his sensational shooting at SS. Peter and Paul court?" asked Johnny Mullaney the other evening.

How could we forget that kind of a performance!

Especially when a player stands in mid-court and sinks 13 shots and we don't believe any of them hit the basket rim or the backboard. Nat got 27 points.

That's what Hickey did on Sunday, March 7, 1938, as the Celtics defeated Coach Mullaney's Tri-Staters, 65-51. Paul Birch, not long out of Duquesne

NAT HICKEY . . . as he looked in his heyday as a pro basketball player. He's now Johnstown coach.

University, collected 10 baskets for the Celtics in the same contest. Other members of the visiting team were "Rusty" Saunders, Pat Herlihy and Dave Banks.

"Ike" Cessna, Eddie Diehl, Dellie Proudfoot, Van Roby, George Rice and Kenneth Gerard were the Tri-State players and Johnny Long was the referee.

• — • — •

In recalling that visit of Hickey and Company almost 13 years ago, Mullaney said that Davey Banks was griping because of the poor turnout for the game. There were only 300 paying patrons on hand and the Celtics' share of the gate was $70.

"We passed up a $250 guarantee at Columbus, Ohio, to come here," Banks wailed.

Hickey assured the local management that the Celtics would make a good showing regardless of the guarantee.

"In fact, I'll put on a show myself, just to please the fans," Hickey declared.

"And that's just what Hickey did—and what a show!" Mullaney exclaimed.

The local club dug into its treasury for $30 additional to up the Celtics' guarantee to $100.

Hickey is now coach of the Johnstown (Pa.) Club which meets the Spas here tomorrow night.

He played pro basketball for many years and at one time led the National League in scoring.

Nat played baseball here 25 years ago with the Johnstown champs of the Mid-Atlantic League. He, Jimmie "Rip" Collins and Grover Hinebaugh made up the Johnnies' outfield.

Harry J. Barton, well known Allegany county dairyman, sportsman and member of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, is opposed to the early squirrel season and will vote that way at the spring session of the commission in April.

"I'm definitely opposed to the early squirrel season not for any other reason than the fact that I'm in favor of having just one season for the hunting of all upland game," Mr. Barton asserted.

"Poachers take advantage of the early squirrel dates to kill other game and the only way to stop this practice is to eliminate the September 15-30 season."

The regular upland season in Maryland is November 15 through December 30, with only buck deer legal game Dec. 4 through 9.

Barton stated there was a hot session over the early squirrel season last spring at Annapolis. Sportsmen were pretty evenly divided on the matter and no change was effected. However, he is certain there will be a showdown in April.

The state commissioner announces that regulations affecting fishing in non-tidal waters of Maryland were adopted by the commission after its recent meeting in Westminster.

Among the more important are:

It's unlawful to catch black bass or pike (pickerel) in the non-tidal waters of Baltimore city, and Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Calvert, Caroline, Charles, Cecil, Dorchester, Harford Kent, Prince Georges, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's Talbot, Wicomico, Somerset or Worcester counties except from June 1 to Nov. 30, inclusive.

There shall be no statewide closed seasons on the catching of the following species of fish in non-tidal waters:

Crappie, suckers, carp, eels, white and yellow perch, sunfish (including blue gills and rock bass or red eyes) striped bass, fall-fish and gudgeons.

The game shall be true of catfish when in the non-tidal waters of the counties named above, but a daily creel of ten fish of those species 8 inches in length shall prevail in the Western Maryland counties.

The purpose of doing away with closed season on certain species is to rid streams of the larger fish that are destroying the bass population.

Mr. Barton points out that it was the custom in Maryland to stock streams with bass fingerlings but they never had much of a chance and proved to be good food for the bigger fish. This occurred right in Deep Creek Lake in Garrett county. Under the present state program only adult bass are being stocked.

The scrapping of closed seasons on certain fish means that many Maryland anglers who enjoy the sport during the winter months will become "ice fishermen." That is, they'll be pulling their fish out of holes in the ice.

To the fight fan who called on the phone Thursday night and asked if James J. Braddock had floored Joe Louis the night the latter won the world's heavweight boxing title.

Louis knocked out Braddock in the 8th round to win the championship before 65,000 persons at Comiskey Park, Chicago, June 22, 1937.

Here are two excerpts from accounts of that fight:

"To the astonishment of the spectators, the champion drove a right uppercut to the chin that dropped Louis as if he had been hit with an axe. The blow, however, apparently landed on his 'adam's apple' instead of the button. Louis jumped up and backed out of danger before the timekeeper could begin a count. Braddock was unable to press his sudden advantage.

"One jolting right uppercut in the first round almost retained the title for the Jersey 'Cinderella Man.' It whistled upward a scant eight inches, whipped the challenger under the chin and dropped him to the canvas. But Louis took it and was on his feet without a count."

We take it from those paragraphs that Mr. Louis must have hit the deck in Round One.

Final individual football statistics from Duke University show that Tommy Powers, junior wingback from Cumberland, gained 192 net yards in 53 carries for an average of 3.6 yards.

Tommy completed two of four passes for 74 yards, caught 26 passes for 443 yards and scored six touchdowns via the air lanes. He made three interceptions, returned three punts 41 yards and returned five kickoffs 100 yards.

Powers led the Blue Devils in scoring with 54 points on nine touchdowns.

102,000 To See Army Play Navy In Philadelphia

Cadets Are Heavily Favored In 51st Tilt

By GAYLE TALBOT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1 (AP) — Army's hard-hitting football team, undefeated through 28 games and scored upon only four times this entire season, is heavily favored to wallop Navy in the 51st meeting of the two old service rivals in sprawling Municipal Stadium tomorrow.

It has been seven long years since the Middies from Annapolis tasted victory over the West Pointers, and their two-won, six lost record for the current campaign scarcely would appear to qualify them for an upset in this one. Even the weather looked tonight to be be conspiring against the Tars.

Originally the forecast was for rain and snow, both. This pleased Navy mightily, as it has been demonstrated that a muddy field puts a crimp in Army's famed running attack. But the latest phophecy says the day will be cloudy and fairly cold, with no moisture in sight until after the game ends. Army's many fine backs, headed by Al Pollard, should have dry footing.

Truman Will Attend

President Truman, in his steam-heated box on the navy side, and some 102,000 other fans including a wealth of Army and Navy brass will witness the contest. The entire Cadet corps and the regiment of midshipmen will parade before the kickoff at 1:30 p. m. (EST). They make a colorful spectacle.

No team this year—barring Stanford in a mud bath—has been able to withstand the fury of the Army attack for more than a period. Sooner or later all the elaborte defensive setups devised to stop Coach Earl Blaik's T-formation have crumpled. In trampling Colgate, Penn State, Michigan, Harvard, Columbia, Penn, New Mexico and Stanford, the Cadets have rolled up 265 points to opponents' 26.

Navy, under a youthful new head coach, Eddie Erdelatz, has beaten only Southern California and Columbia while losing to Maryland, Northwestern, Princeton, Penn, Notre Dame and Tulane. The Middies have scored 108 points, their rivals 174.

One thing appears certain: if it is to be a close contest, Navy will have to keep possession of the ball when its turn comes and push to more than one touchdown. It cannot rely upon its defenses, for sooner or later Army will go.

In such running backs as Pollard, Vic Pollock, Frank Fischl, Jack Martin, Gil Stephenson, Gene Filipski and Jim Cain, the Cadets possess about as talented a group as any coach could wish.

Zastrow Is Navy's Ace

If any Middle back is capable of throwing a scare into Army, and perhaps even keeping the Sailors in the ball game, his name is Bob Zastrow, the team's quarterback and passer. Fullback Dave Bennerman bears the brunt of Navy's running attack and he is good. Bill Powers, the team's halfback workhorse, will face Army both on offense and defense as long as he lasts.

Wildcats Win, 73-43

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 1 (INS) —The University of Kentucky basketball squad opened its 1950-51 season tonight with a 73 to 43 victory over West Texas State.

The Wildcats extended their home victory string to 85 straight in a game played before a record crowd of 10,000. The Ruppmen have not lost a basketball game on their home courts since Ohio State beat them in 1943.

Nat Hickey's Clippers Make League Debut

Locals Make Third Try To Open League Season Here At 9 P. M.

Johnstown's Clippers, one of the three new teams in the All-American Basketball League, will help to usher in the league season in Cumberland when they tangle with Coach William V. "Bill" Keegan's Spas tomorrow night at 9 o'clock on SS. Peter and Paul court.

Nat Hickey, one-time star of the Original Celtics of New York and the Cleveland Rosenblums, and one-time Middle Atlantic Baseball League player, is coach of the Johnstown team which is sponsored by Century Enterprises, Inc., which has as its business manager and secretary-treasurer, Harry E. Finley. The Johnnies will play their home games at Johnstown's War Memorial.

Cumberland will be attempting to open its league season for the third time in eight days. The Erie game here last Sunday and the locals' game at Altoona Friday night were postponed on account of the snowstorm which kept things at a standstill in Pennsylvania communities during the past week.

Karmakovich With Visitors

Johnstown's lineup will include George "Chuck" Karmakovich, ex-Waynesburg College star, who finished the 1949-50 season with Altoona; Jimmy Atkins, negro player, who has been with the Flyers for the past few years; Jim Reynolds from Clemson College, Jimmy Joll, Billy Vitale and Billy Pavlick, former Johnstown Catholic High scoring ace who appeared in several games against LaSalle.

The Clippers, Erie and Beaver Falls are the newcomers in the circuit. Wheeling, Altoona and Cumberland, 1949-50 champions, are the holdovers.

Cumberland's starting lineup will be selected from Bob Pence, Lou Bell, Jack Murphy, Paul Oberhaus, Jack Thomas and George Geatz.

Third Game Of Season

Sunday's game will be the third of the season for the Spas. The locals dropped their first two starts to Waynesburg College, 57-54, and St. Francis (Pa.) College, 64-55.

Altoona celebrated the opening of the league season on Thursday night by edging Beaver Falls, 48-47.

In tomorrow's prelim at 7:45, the Cumberland Electrics, 135-pound champions in last season's Gold Medal Tournament, will play the Ridgeley Alumni.

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Dec. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Charles S. Howard's Noor defeated Palestinian and Assault in that order today in a tuneup race for the $100,000 Gold Cup coming up Dec. 9, and raced the mile and one furlong in new track record time.

Noor, ridden by Jockey Johnny Longden, won by seven lengths and the race was clocked at 1.48 flat. Track record was 1.48 1/5, set by Burning Dream in July 1947.

A throng of 16,000 saw the five-horse race at Hollywood Park, where the rich race comes off next weekend.

It was Irish-bred Noor's first race since he lost the Jockey Club Gold Cup by eight lengths to Hill Prince, another Hollywood Gold Cup threat, at Belmont, last Oct. 7.

Potomac State Opens Tonight; Spas Face Johnstown Sunday

Altoona Quint To Meet Cats At Keyser Gym

Cats Open 26-Game Schedule At 8 P. M., Pence, Hahn To Work

Potomac State's Catamounts will launch their 1950-51 basketball schedule of 26 games tonight when they play hosts to the cagers of Altoona Branch of Penn State College at Keyser at 8 o'clock.

Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's squad played a practice game with the Cumberland Spas last night and made a creditable showing against their more experienced opponents. The Catamounts' mentor expressed his thanks to Coach William V. "Bill" Keegan and said he felt the experience was worth a lot to his team.

Lough, who is starting his 16th year as coach at the Keyser school, stated yesterday that he is uncertain as to the starting lineup for tonight's contest. Boyd Pyles had not returned to school because of weather conditions and may not get into the first game. Ted Lauer and Gussie Fisher will start because of their experience. There will be at least two freshmen in the starting lineup.

Potomac State is expected to match Altoona Branch in height but will be outclassed in experience.

There will be a preliminary game at 7 o'clock.

Bob Pence and Bill Hahn will officiate in the main contest.

The entire Catamount team will attend the basketball clinic at the Central YMCA today.

Ray Famechon Stops Devino

French Boxer Wins In 7th At Garden

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP) — Ray Famechon, the sharp-shooting European featherweight champ from France, put on a dazzling boxing show before he stopped young Archie Devino of Newark, N. J., tonight in 2:43 of the seventh round at Madison Square Garden. Famechon weighed 127¾, Devino 129.

The Frenchman made up for his dull American debut against Willie Pep last St. Patrick's Day by completely outclassing Devino in tonight's scheduled 10 rounder.

Referee Petey Scalzo gathered Devino in his arms as he came off the floor, glassy-eyed, after taking a nine count in the seventh.

Famechon's raking left hand, one of the best seen around the Garden in some time, set up young Devino for the kill. But it was his right hand punch that did the final job.

Two raking rights to the head stunned Devino as he dropped down on hands and knees. He just did beat the count but was obviously in no condition to coninue.

Fighting out of a crouch, with his hands high to protect his head, Famecon did a workmanlike job on 22-year-old Devino. He flicked that left jab to the head, crossed the right to the head, sunk a straight left to the stomach in a bewildering attack.

Arthur H. Malloy Taken By Death

Played And Coached At Mt. St. Mary's

EMMITSBURG, Md., Dec. 1 (AP) — One of the brightest athletic stars Mt. St. Mary's College ever had, Arthur H. Malloy, died at his home here today.

The 58-year-old coach and athletic director had been ill for 18 months. His death came at 5 a.m. after a heart attack.

Msgr. John L. Sheridan, president of the Catholic school, said Mt. St. Mary's had lost the greatest athlete ever to study here.

Malloy was a native of Wilmington, Del., and graduated from Mt. St. Mary's in 1913 after starring in football, basketball, and baseball.

He returned here as head coach in 1924 after a long stretch in a similar job at Salesianum School at Wilmington. He later became athletic director.

He had taken time out from his coaching job at Wilmington to serve in the army during World War I, and soon after Pearl Harbor he resigned here to become director of the U. S. O. at Ft. duPont, Del.

He came back to Mt. St. Mary's in 1946 to resume as athletic director, but he had to retire in 1948 because of his health.

Survivors include the widow and a sister, Miss Sarah Malloy of Wilmington.

The body will lie in state at the college administration building Sunday. A requiem mass will be offered at St. Anthony's Shrine at 10 a. m. Monday. Burial will follow in Cathedral Cemetery in Wilmington, Del.

Frank Stranahan Ties Dick Mayer At Halfway Mark

Post 8-Under-Par 132s In Miami Open Meet

By JAMES F. FOWLER

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP) — Amateur Frank Stranahan and Dick Mayer, 27-year-old professional, tied for the lead at the end of the second round of the $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament today with 8 under par 132s.

Stranahan, former British Open champion and winner of the Miami tournament two years ago, carded a five under par 33-32—65 over the long Miami Springs golf course to add to his 67 first round score.

Mayer, of Old Greenwich, Conn., who has yet to win a major tournament, also carded a 65.

Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., Jack Burke, Jr., of Houston, Tex., and Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y., shared the second low scores at 133 strokes for 36 holes.

Sam Snead, top money winner of the year from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., had the most erratic round of the day. Still using borrowed clubs, he was one over par on four holes and still came in with a four under par 66, clocking up an eagle and six birdies.

Sixty-Six Make Grade

It took a score of 144-four over par — or lower for the professionals to remain in the last 36 holes of the tournament. Sixty-six made the grade. Amateurs who carded 149 or lower got under the line. An even dozen made it.

Joe Kirkwood, Jr., part time movie star from Daytona Beach, Fla. took one over par fives on the last two holes and finished with a 34-34—68. He was tied for the lead yesterday with Turnesa.

Defending champion Freddie Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, La., was far off the form that gave him a record breaking win last year with a 264. For the second straight day he carded a one over par 71 to give him an aggregate of 142.

Sam Snead Gets 135

Bunched at 135s were Snead, Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, Calif.; Art Wall, Jr., Bronxville, N. Y., and John Barnum, Cedar Rapids, Mich.

Marty Furgol of North Hollywood, Calif., repeated the 68 he shot in the first round and was alone at 136.

Seven pros grouped at 137. They were Julius Boros, Mid Pines, N. C.; Dave Douglas, Newark, Del.; Cary Middlecoff, Ormond Beach, Fla.; Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill.; Doug Ford, Briarcliff, N. Y.; Walter Burkemo, Franklin Hill, Mich., and Herman Barron, White Plains, N. Y.

Forty-two of the 153 pros and amateurs competing equalled or bettered par.

Oklahoma, Tennessee, Army Favored In Today's Games

Pitt, Notre Dame Also Are Choices

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP)—College football fires its final salvos on a national scale tomorrow with Oklahoma and Army dominating the fireworks as usual.

Tennessee and Georgia, two bowl-bound teams, also are listed for strenuous action, along with a scattering of other grid big shots.

More than 100,000 fans, including President Truman, will pack Philadelphia's mammoth Municipal Stadium to watch the two service elevens bang heads in their customary slambang style.

Army's all-winning cadets, rated second to Oklahoma among the gridiron's powers, are 20-point choices to run their unbeaten string through 29 games. Two ties mar the Cadets' record and one of them is the memorable 21-21 deadlock of '48.

Seek 32nd Straight

Oklahoma's Sugar Bowl-bound Sooners will be seeking their 32nd straight victory, a notable string which includes two prized Sugar Bowl triumphs, against Oklahoma A & M.

The nation's No. 1 team, Oklahoma has been made a favorite over the Aggies.

Tennessee, (9-1-0) riding high after its brilliant success over Kentucky, bumps into the dangerous Commodores of Vanderbilt (7-3) at Nashville.

Georgia's Bulldogs (6-1-3), who face Texas A & M in the Washington Presidential Cup Game Dec. 9 oppose Georgia Tech (4-6) in the battle of the Peach State.

Tennessee is favored by 14 points and Georgia by 11.

In other major games North Carolina is favored by five over Virginia; Pittsburgh by six over Penn State; Mississippi State by 6½ over Mississippi; Fordham by 6½ over Syracuse; Southern Methodist by seven over Texas Christian; Baylor by seven over Rice; Holy Cross by seven over Boston College; Tulane by 13 over Louisiana State; Alabama by 27½ over Auburn; and Notre Dame by 11 over Southern California.

The Notre-Dame-Southern California tilt winds up one of the sorriest seasons for both teams, once the kingpins of their sectors. Notre Dame is 4-3-1 and Southern Cal 1-2-5.

Other games on the schedule include Maryland-Virginia Tech, Kansas State-Wichita, Tulsa-Houston, Richmond-William and Mary, Quantico Marines-College of Pacific and four minor bowls.

Four Bowl Games

The Orange Blossom at Miami matches Florida A & M and Wilberforce State; the Refrigerator at Evansville, Ind., pits Gustavus Adolphus against Abilene Christian; the Potato at Bakersfield, Calif., sends Olympic JC against Bakersfield JC; and the Paper Bowl at Pensacola, Fla., pairs Jacksonville (Ala) Teachers and the Pensacola Cardinals.

When Nat Stole Show • • • Change Angling Laws

Barton Gives Views • • • Yes, Joe Was On Deck

By C. V. BURNS

"Do you remember the year the Tri-State Mine and Mill Supply Company basketball team played the Original Celtics of New York here and Nat Hickey "stole the show" with his sensational shooting at SS. Peter and Paul court?" asked Johnny Mullaney the other evening.

How could we forget that kind of a performance!

Especially when a player stands in mid-court and sinks 13 shots and we don't believe any of them hit the basket rim or the backboard. Nat got 27 points.

That's what Hickey did on Sunday, March 7, 1938, as the Celtics defeated Coach Mullaney's Tri-Staters, 65-51. Paul Birch, not long out of Duquesne

NAT HICKEY . . . as he looked in his heyday as a pro basketball player. He's now Johnstown coach.

University, collected 10 baskets for the Celtics in the same contest. Other members of the visiting team were "Rusty" Saunders, Pat Herlihy and Dave Banks.

"Ike" Cessna, Eddie Diehl, Dellie Proudfoot, Van Roby, George Rice and Kenneth Gerard were the Tri-State players and Johnny Long was the referee.

• — • — •

In recalling that visit of Hickey and Company almost 13 years ago, Mullaney said that Davey Banks was griping because of the poor turnout for the game. There were only 300 paying patrons on hand and the Celtics' share of the gate was $70.

"We passed up a $250 guarantee at Columbus, Ohio, to come here," Banks wailed.

Hickey assured the local management that the Celtics would make a good showing regardless of the guarantee.

"In fact, I'll put on a show myself, just to please the fans," Hickey declared.

"And that's just what Hickey did—and what a show!" Mullaney exclaimed.

The local club dug into its treasury for $30 additional to up the Celtics' guarantee to $100.

• — • — •

Hickey is now coach of the Johnstown (Pa.) Club which meets the Spas here tomorrow night.

He played pro basketball for many years and at one time led the National League in scoring.

Nat played baseball here 25 years ago with the Johnstown champs of the Mid-Atlantic League. He, Jimmie "Rip" Collins and Grover Hinebaugh made up the Johnnies' outfield.

Harry J. Barton, well known Allegany county dairyman, sportsman and member of the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, is opposed to the early squirrel season and will vote that way at the spring session of the commission in April.

"I'm definitely opposed to the early squirrel season not for any other reason than the fact that I'm in favor of having just one season for the hunting of all upland game," Mr. Barton asserted.

"Poachers take advantage of the early squirrel dates to kill other game and the only way to stop this practice is to eliminate the September 15-30 season."

The regular upland season in Maryland is November 15 through December 30, with only buck deer legal game Dec. 4 through 9.

Barton stated there was a hot session over the early squirrel season last spring at Annapolis. Sportsmen were pretty evenly divided on the matter and no change was effected. However, he is certain there will be a showdown in April.

The state commissioner announces that regulations affecting fishing in non-tidal waters of Maryland were adopted by the commission after its recent meeting in Westminster.

Among the more important are:

It's unlawful to catch black bass or pike (pickerel) in the non-tidal waters of Baltimore city, and Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Calvert, Caroline, Charles, Cecil, Dorchester, Harford Kent, Prince Georges, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's Talbot, Wicomico, Somerset or Worcester counties except from June 1 to Nov. 30, inclusive.

There shall be no statewide closed seasons on the catching of the following species of fish in non-tidal waters:

Crappie, suckers, carp, eels, white and yellow perch, sunfish (including blue gills and rock bass or red eyes) striped bass, fall-fish and gudgeons.

The game shall be true of catfish when in the non-tidal waters of the counties named above, but a daily creel of ten fish of those species 8 inches in length shall prevail in the Western Maryland counties.

The purpose of doing away with closed season on certain species is to rid streams of the larger fish that are destroying the bass population.

Mr. Barton points out that it was the custom in Maryland to stock streams with bass fingerlings but they never had much of a chance and proved to be good food for the bigger fish. This occurred right in Deep Creek Lake in Garrett county. Under the present state program only adult bass are being stocked.

The scrapping of closed seasons on certain fish means that many Maryland anglers who enjoy the sport during the winter months will become "ice fishermen." That is, they'll be pulling their fish out of holes in the ice.

To the fight fan who called on the phone Thursday night and asked if James J. Braddock had floored Joe Louis the night the latter won the world's heavyweight boxing title.

Louis knocked out Braddock in the 8th round to win the championship before 65,000 persons at Comiskey Park, Chicago, June 22, 1937.

Here are two excerpts from accounts of that fight:

"To the astonishment of the spectators, the champion drove a right uppercut to the chin that dropped Louis as if he had been hit with an axe. The blow, however, apparently landed on his 'adam's apple' instead of the button. Louis jumped up and backed out of danger before the timekeeper could begin a count. Braddock was unable to press his sudden advantage.

"One jolting right uppercut in the first round almost retained the title for the Jersey 'Cinderella Man.' It whistled upward a scant eight inches, whipped the challenger under the chin and dropped him to the canvas. But Louis took it and was on his feet without a count."

We take it from those paragraphs that Mr. Louis must have hit the deck in Round One.

102,000 To See Army Play Navy In Philadelphia

Cadets Are Heavily Favored In 51st Tilt

By GAYLE TALBOT

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 1 (AP) — Army's hard-hitting football team, undefeated through 28 games and scored upon only four times this entire season, is heavily favored to wallop Navy in the 51st meeting of the two old service rivals in sprawling Municipal Stadium tomorrow.

It has been seven long years since the Middies from Annapolis tasted victory over the West Pointers, and their two-won, six lost record for the current campaign scarcely would appear to qualify them for an upset in this one. Even the weather looked tonight to be be conspiring against the Tars.

Originally the forecast was for rain and snow, both. This pleased Navy mightily, as it has been demonstrated that a muddy field puts a crimp in Army's famed running attack. But the latest phophecy says the day will be cloudy and fairly cold, with no moisture in sight until after the game ends. Army's many fine backs, headed by Al Pollard, should have dry footing.

Truman Will Attend

President Truman, in his steam-heated box on the navy side, and some 102,000 other fans including a wealth of Army and Navy brass will witness the contest. The entire Cadet corps and the regiment of midshipmen will parade before the kickoff at 1:30 p. m. (EST). They make a colorful spectacle.

No team this year—barring Stanford in a mud bath—has been able to withstand the fury of the Army attack for more than a period. Sooner or later all the elaborte defensive setups devised to stop Coach Earl Blaik's T-formation have crumpled. In trampling Colgate, Penn State, Michigan, Harvard, Columbia, Penn, New Mexico and Stanford, the Cadets have rolled up 265 points to opponents' 26.

Navy, under a youthful new head coach, Eddie Erdelatz, has beaten only Southern California and Columbia while losing to Maryland, Northwestern, Princeton, Penn, Notre Dame and Tulane. The Middies have scored 108 points, their rivals 174.

One thing appears certain: if it is to be a close contest, Navy will have to keep possession of the ball when its turn comes and push to more than one touchdown. It cannot rely upon its defenses, for sooner or later Army will go.

In such running backs as Pollard, Vic Pollock, Frank Fischl, Jack Martin, Gil Stephenson, Gene Filipski and Jim Cain, the Cadets possess about as talented a group as any coach could wish.

Zastrow Is Navy's Ace

If any Middle back is capable of throwing a scare into Army, and perhaps even keeping the Sailors in the ball game, his name is Bob Zastrow, the team's quarterback and passer. Fullback Dave Bennerman bears the brunt of Navy's running attack and he is good. Bill Powers, the team's halfback workhorse, will face Army both on offense and defense as long as he lasts.

Wildcats Win, 73-43

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 1 (INS) —The University of Kentucky basketball squad opened its 1950-51 season tonight with a 73 to 43 victory over West Texas State.

The Wildcats extended their home victory string to 85 straight in a game played before a record crowd of 10,000. The Ruppmen have not lost a basketball game on their home courts since Ohio State beat them in 1943.

Nat Hickey's Clippers Make League Debut

Locals Make Third Try To Open League Season Here At 9 P. M.

Johnstown's Clippers, one of the three new teams in the All-American Basketball League, will help to usher in the league season in Cumberland when they tangle with Coach William V. "Bill" Keegan's Spas tomorrow night at 9 o'clock on SS. Peter and Paul court.

Nat Hickey, one-time star of the Original Celtics of New York and the Cleveland Rosenblums, and one-time Middle Atlantic Baseball League player, is coach of the Johnstown team which is sponsored by Century Enterprises, Inc., which has as its business manager and secretary-treasurer, Harry E. Finley. The Johnnies will play their home games at Johnstown's War Memorial.

Cumberland will be attempting to open its league season for the third time in eight days. The Erie game here last Sunday and the locals' game at Altoona Friday night were postponed on account of the snowstorm which kept things at a standstill in Pennsylvania communities during the past week.

Karmakovich With Visitors

Johnstown's lineup will include George "Chuck" Karmakovich, ex-Waynesburg College star, who finished the 1949-50 season with Altoona; Jimmy Atkins, negro player, who has been with the Flyers for the past few years; Jim Reynolds from Clemson College, Jimmy Joll, Billy Vitale and Billy Pavlick, former Johnstown Catholic High scoring ace who appeared in several games against LaSalle.

The Clippers, Erie and Beaver Falls are the newcomers in the circuit. Wheeling, Altoona and Cumberland, 1949-50 champions, are the holdovers.

Cumberland's starting lineup will be selected from Bob Pence, Lou Bell, Jack Murphy, Paul Oberhaus, Jack Thomas and George Geatz.

Third Game Of Season

Sunday's game will be the third of the season for the Spas. The locals dropped their first two starts to Waynesburg College, 57-54, and St. Francis (Pa.) College, 64-55.

Altoona celebrated the opening of the league season on Thursday night by edging Beaver Falls, 48-47.

In tomorrow's prelim at 7:45, the Cumberland Electrics, 135-pound champions in last season's Gold Medal Tournament, will play the Ridgeley Alumni.

Noor Scores Win Over Palestinian, Assault On Coast

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Dec. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Charles S. Howard's Noor defeated Palestinian and Assault in that order today in a tuneup race for the $100,000 Gold Cup coming up Dec. 9, and raced the mile and one furlong in new track record time.

Noor, ridden by Jockey Johnny Longden, won by seven lengths and the race was clocked at 1.48 flat. Track record was 1.48 1/5, set by Burning Dream in July 1947.

A throng of 16,000 saw the five-horse race at Hollywood Park, where the rich race comes off next weekend.

It was Irish-bred Noor's first race since he lost the Jockey Club Gold Cup by eight lengths to Hill Prince, another Hollywood Gold Cup threat, at Belmont, last Oct. 7.

Tropical Park Daily Double Pays $1,656

Golden Mean Returns $147.50 In 2nd Race

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Longshots continued to run rampant at Tropical Park today.

The daily double returned a walloping $1,656.80, almost thrice the payoff of $573.90 at yesterday's inaugural of the Florida racing season.

Medway Stable's Overpower, an invader from Canada, and H. Barnett's Golden Mean, a campaigner from Rockingham Park, completed today's big double. Only eight tickets were sold on the lucky combination of 11 and 12.

Overpower, ridden by Vincent Polk, paid $14.30, $6.80, $7.70 (more to show than place), after toying with the 11 other cheap routers in the opener, registering by 3½ lengths from Hair Tonic. China Colleen, a 50 to 1 shot was third, tiring badly after leading to the head of the stretch under Nick Wall.

Golden Mean had no trouble, either, taking the second at the luscious across-the-board odds of $147.50, $86.80 and $19.30, longest payoff of the young season. Cuba's Antonio J. Fernandez broke him running and the gelding proceeded to click by 4 lengths from Elated, turning 6 furlongs in 1:12 1-5. Slumberland drubbed eight others, for the short end.

Uncle Edgar Scores

BOWIE, Md., Dec. 1 (AP)—Louis Tufano's Uncle Edgar ran over horses in the stretch to take the featured $3,500 Oak Leaf Purse, a sprint at six furlongs by a neck here today.

Big If, owned by Mrs. J. T. Maloney, earned second a length ahead of Mrs. W. S. Snell's Black and Blue.

Uncle Edgar, ridden by Apprentice Darrell Hartley, Canadian booter, paid $16.00 for $2. The 4-year-old colt sprinted the three-quarters in 1:11 4-5.

Tropical Park Daily Double Pays $1,656

Golden Mean Returns $147.50 In 2nd Race

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 1 (AP)—Longshots continued to run rampant at Tropical Park today.

The daily double returned a walloping $1,656.80, almost thrice the payoff of $573.90 at yesterday's inaugural of the Florida racing season.

Medway Stable's Overpower, an invader from Canada, and H. Barnett's Golden Mean, a campaigner from Rockingham Park, completed today's big double. Only eight tickets were sold on the lucky combination of 11 and 12.

Overpower, ridden by Vincent Polk, paid $14.30, $6.80, $7.70 (more to show than place), after toying with the 11 other cheap routers in the opener, registering by 3½ lengths from Hair Tonic. China Colleen, a 50 to 1 shot was third, tiring badly after leading to the head of the stretch under Nick Wall.

Golden Mean had no trouble, either, taking the second at the luscious across-the-board odds of $147.50, $86.80 and $19.30, longest payoff of the young season. Cuba's Antonio J. Fernandez broke him running and the gelding proceeded to click by 4 lengths from Elated, turning 6 furlongs in 1:12 1-5. Slumberland drubbed eight others, for the short end.

Uncle Edgar Scores

BOWIE, Md., Dec. 1 (AP)—Louis Tufano's Uncle Edgar ran over horses in the stretch to take the featured $3,500 Oak Leaf Purse, a sprint at six furlongs by a neck here today.

Big If, owned by Mrs. J. T. Maloney, earned second a length ahead of Mrs. W. S. Snell's Black and Blue.

Uncle Edgar, ridden by Apprentice Darrell Hartley, Canadian booter, paid $16.00 for $2. The 4-year-old colt sprinted the three-quarters in 1:11 4-5.

Price To Coach Texas Longhorns

Assistant Is Named Cherry's Successor

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 1 (INS) — Edwin B. Price, assistant football tutor at the University of Texas for 14 years, today was elevated to head coach, succeeding Blair Cherry.

The new Longhorn gridmaster, a graduate of Texas, was appointed by the board of regents upon recommendation of the school's athletic council.

He was given a two-year contract at an annual salary of $12,000 effective Jan. 1.

Cherry, who is quitting football to enter the oil business, will direct the Southwest Conference champion Longhorns through the remainder of this season, which ends when Texas plays Tennessee in the New Year's Day Cotton Bowl game.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 1—(INS)—I particularly noticed little Mitzi Gaynor when I visited the set of "Take Care Of My Little Girl" as she was doing a scene with Jeanne Crain. She's the very attractive youngster who made her film debut in "My Blue Heaven" at 20th.

Dennis Day

Mitzie, who was formerly a Los Angeles Civic Light Opera star, now gets the coveted role of Lotta Crabtree in "Golden Girl." Lotta was one of the top entertainers in San Francisco following the '49 gold rush, and is one of the famous figures of the old west.

Producer George Jessel has signed Dennis Day, and a new boy by the name of Dale Robertson, along with Mitzi, for "Golden Girl."

C. B. DeMille is certainly getting himself a star lineup for "The Greatest Show On Earth," his circus epic.

The latest to join the merry throng is Charlton Heston, who has been borrowed from Hal Wallis for the role of the manager.

The lineup now stands: Jimmy Stewart as the clown, Betty Hutton for the aerialist, Lucille Ball, for the elephant girl, and Dorothy Lamour, the trapeze artist, the girl with the iron jaw.

There is only one more role to be selected. After seeing Heston in "Dark City," I'd like to go on record as saying C. B. is to be congratulated.

The most exciting screen personality since Ingrid Bergman's first American picture is Pier Angela, exquisitely beautiful Italian girl who makes her debut in "Teresa." Pier is very young and very appealing.

When I said as much to Dore Schary, and added I was sure after "Teresa" is seen some producer will nab her, Dore replied, "We have already signed Pier, and did as soon as we saw her in 'Teresa' and we are planning a picture for her."

Dore tells me that he, Mrs. Schary and the three children leave December 20 to spend Christmas in New York. "I want them to see New York," he said. "Then we all go to Florida where I'll rest and confer with Nicholas Schenck."

Apparently Ingrid hasn't forgotten the good times she had when she visited the "Quo Vadis" set in Rome as Robert Taylor's guest on the last day of shooting.

At Bob's bedside at the Stanford Lane hospital, where he's recuperating from an abdominal operation, is a wonderful basket of flowers. They were sent to him by Ingrid along with a cabled message.

She expressed her sympathy and best wishes, and added thanks to him for his courtesy in showing her around the "Quo Vadis" sets.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Elizabeth Taylor cannot go to New York with Nicky Hilton on his business trip because she's working. But he'll be back in time for Christmas.

Vera Vague (Barbara Joe Allen) has been tested for Liz Taylor's mother in "Love Is Better Than Ever."

Alan Ladd's Irish filly, Alana David, makes her debut at Santa Anita next month. This is the Irish horse, flown here from Ireland, his children gave Alan for Father's Day.

Zachary Scott and Peggy Morrow have taken up where they left off and were oh, so happy, at Mocambo the other eve.

Ida Cantor, who blew her one line on Eddie's last TV show, will be given another chance tomorrow. This time Cantor is taking no chances. Ida will be in pantomime with no lines! "Can I blow the pantomime?" Ida asked him. "Never in the history of pantomime has anyone been able to blow it," Eddie replied.

Mae Clark, silent screen star, glimpsed at Charley Foy's with a very handsome escort, but Mae wouldn't give his name.

Congratulations to Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz. Today was their tenth wedding anniversary.

Mervyn Le Roy is back in Hollywood after spending months in Rome directing "Quo Vadis"—and is he happy to be home!

Bing Crosby entertained the Notre Dame football team today on the Paramount lot. Buses met them at the airport and whisked them there for luncheon.

Larry Tierney, who visited the Desert Club party with his brother, Scott Brady, lived up to all the rules of Alcoholics Anonymous and made everyone proud of him. Larry's such a dear when he's a good boy, and so impossible when he isn't.

That's all today. See you Monday.

The term "mandarin" formerly was applied in China by foreigners to government officials of every grade.

Accent the silver in your hair with a change in lipstick! You'll gain in beauty and distinction.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

LOOK around you! Everywhere you go, you'll spot snow white heads that are the boast of some of the most popular, attractive and busiest women in the world toady. More and more women are learning to consider silvering hair a challenge to their agelessness instead of a defeat of their youth. The woman who relegates herself to the rocking chair brigade is decidedly out of step with the times.

Actually, silvering hair is merely the sign that you are changing one fine hair coloring for another fine one—and it's your opportunity to achieve a greater personal distinction than ever before.

Change for the Better

If you purposely changed the color of your hair, say from brunette to blonde, you'd give every angle of the transformation quite a bit of thought, wouldn't you? You'd find out just what clothing, hair styles and make-up were right for your new hair shade. That's just what you should do when your hair decides to change color all by itself. And you will find it can be a very stimulating and interesting experience.

Where will you start? Why, by buying a new lipstick, of course! It can be a most attractive accent for silver hair, if you follow these suggestions:

1. It's very silly to think that your skin tones fade along with your hair coloring. On the contrary, all skins except the fairest appear a bit darker because of the contrast between hair and skin. For this reason, your old shade of lipstick may look harshly unbecoming.

2. If so, step down the intensity of the next lipstick you select. Lean away from the deep purples, or the black reds. This does not mean you should settle for an "old lady" pastel shade. Never! The vibrant, close to true red shades are the right ones for you.

Practice Makes Perfect

3. Learn as never before to wield a lipstick brush with accuracy. Don't let the outline of your mouth become the full-blown rose of the deb, nor the tight, straight line of the harridan.

4. Of course, you will match your rouge to your lipstick. And you will also learn to apply it with fresh skill: Close to the nose if your face is full or out on the cheekbones if it is slender. After every application look at yourself in a strong light—impartially. I'd rather see you pale than artificially aged by splotches of rouge!

P. S. from J. R. P.

Storm Keeps Oakland Hello Girls Busy

OAKLAND — While business has been disrupted for many Oakland concerns as the result of the storm, not so with the Oakland telephone office. Their switchboard has been carrying a load much above normal, and on Saturday the office reached its peak.

During that day there were 10,740 local calls handled by seven operators. This beat any day during the Centennial last year, and even is above the days during deer season.

The peak on toll calls was not reached until Monday when the local telephone office handled 923 toll calls during a 24-hour period. Both are records.

And you will find it can be a very stimulating and interesting experience.

Where will you start? Why, by buying a new lipstick, of course! It can be a most attractive accent for silver hair, if you follow these suggestions:

1. It's very silly to think that your skin tones fade along with your hair coloring. On the contrary, all skins except the fairest appear a bit darker because of the contrast between hair and skin. For this reason, your old shade of lipstick may look harshly unbecoming.

2. If so, step down the intensity of the next lipstick you select. Lean away from the deep purples, or the black reds. This does not mean you should settle for an "old lady" pastel shade. Never! The vibrant, close to true red shades are the right ones for you.

Practice Makes Perfect

3. Learn as never before to wield a lipstick brush with accuracy. Don't let the outline of your mouth become the full-blown rose of the deb, nor the tight, straight line of the harridan.

4. Of course, you will match your rouge to your lipstick. And you will also learn to apply it with fresh skill: Close to the nose if your face is full or out on the cheekbones if it is slender. After every application look at yourself in a strong light—impartially. I'd rather see you pale than artificially aged by splotches of rouge!

Storm Keeps Oakland Hello Girls Busy

OAKLAND — While business has been disrupted for many Oakland concerns as the result of the storm, not so with the Oakland telephone office. Their switchboard has been carrying a load much above normal, and on Saturday the office reached its peak.

During that day there were 10,740 local calls handled by seven operators. This beat any day during the Centennial last year, and even is above the days during deer season.

The peak on toll calls was not reached until Monday when the local telephone office handled 923 toll calls during a 24-hour period. Both are records.

Westernport Grocer Hurt As Train Hits Car

Shifflett Treated For Severe Injuries

WESTERNPORT — J. J. Shifflett, 60-year old local grocer, who lives at 307 Vine Street, was severely injured when his automobile was struck by a Western Maryland Railway coal train at the Washington Street crossing about 1:45 p. m. yesterday, but probably was fortunate that he escaped with his life.

Observers reported that Shifflett's automobile was dragged some 40 yards beyond the crossing and was practically demolished.

Shifflett was taken to Reeves Clinic here in the police ambulance. There he was treated for injuries which included several fractured ribs, shock, laceration on his head, contusions of his left hip and body and abrasions of both hands.

The grocer, who operates a store at Vine and Rock Streets, was x-rayed and sent home later in the afternoon.

Westernport Chief of Police Burza Hanlin said that Shifflett told him he did not see the train nor hear its whistle as he approached the crossing. There is no watchman at that point but a warning light was functioning, witnesses said.

Thornton F. Murray, Cumberland, was engineer on the 14-coal-car train which was coming from the George's Creek Branch. The conductor was I. G. Teeter, also of Cumberland. Both the car and train were reported traveling slowly at the time of the crash.

OAKLAND — The Secretary of the Army has informed Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lee, of Crellin, that a Purple Heart medal has been awarded posthumously to their son, Cpl. Harry F. Lee, infantryman, who sacrificed his life in Korea.

The letter pointed out that the medal was of slight intrinsic value but "rich with tradition for which Americans have so gallantly given their lives since the days of George Washington whose profile and coat of arms adorn the medal." The latter was signed by Frank Pace, Jr., secretary of the army.

Cpl. Lee, who was 20 years of age, was killed September 6th. He enlisted in January, 1948, and arrived in Korea the past August, where he served with Company 1, 38th Infantry, Second Division.

WESTERNPORT — J. J. Shifflett, 60-year old local grocer, who lives at 307 Vine Street, was severely injured when his automobile was struck by a Western Maryland Railway coal train at the Washington Street crossing about 1:45 p. m. yesterday, but probably was fortunate that he escaped with his life.

Observers reported that Shifflett's automobile was dragged some 40 yards beyond the crossing and was practically demolished.

Shifflett was taken to Reeves Clinic here in the police ambulance. There he was treated for injuries which included several fractured ribs, shock, laceration on his head, contusions of his left hip and body and abrasions of both hands.

The grocer, who operates a store at Vine and Rock Streets, was x-rayed and sent home later in the afternoon.

Westernport Chief of Police Burza Hanlin said that Shifflett told him he did not see the train nor hear its whistle as he approached the crossing. There is no watchman at that point but a warning light was functioning, witnesses said.

Thornton F. Murray, Cumberland, was engineer on the 14-coal-car train which was coming from the George's Creek Branch. The conductor was I. G. Teeter, also of Cumberland. Both the car and train were reported traveling slowly at the time of the crash.

OAKLAND — The Secretary of the Army has informed Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lee, of Crellin, that a Purple Heart medal has been awarded posthumously to their son, Cpl. Harry F. Lee, infantryman, who sacrificed his life in Korea.

The letter pointed out that the medal was of slight intrinsic value but "rich with tradition for which Americans have so gallantly given their lives since the days of George Washington whose profile and coat of arms adorn the medal." The latter was signed by Frank Pace, Jr., secretary of the army.

Cpl. Lee, who was 20 years of age, was killed September 6th. He enlisted in January, 1948, and arrived in Korea the past August, where he served with Company 1, 38th Infantry, Second Division.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

One Foot Too Many

EDGAR BERGEN has been conscious of television perhaps longer than any major radio comedian, has been fiddling around with it experimentally for years and finally gave tongue on his first network show on CBS-TV. It didn't set any brushfires in my neighborhood.

John Crosby

Bergen defied the experience of others by putting his show on film. While this gave the program a flexibility he badly needed, it was gained at the expense of picture quality which was poor even by film standards. My opinion of film or kinescope on TV has been low from the outset and it gets lower each time someone else tries it. If you can't see the guy, it doesn't much matter how good the jokes are. Bergen wasn't invisible exactly, just murky, disappearing from view only occasionally.

* * *

That puts a comedian under a severe handicap, as if we were watching him through binoculars in the middle of the night. I wasn't entirely happy about the format of the show, either. Mr. Bergen appeared at the opening in front of that inevitable curtain to trade badinage with the inevitable studio audience which mercifully he kept out of sight. In other words, no shots of men and women beating their palms together, otherwise known as the Ed Sullivan dissolve.

After a minute or two of this, the curtain parted and we were in the Bergen-McCarthy home, examining the dust on Charlie's schoolbooks. I fail to understand this maneuver. The illusion of Mr. Bergen's home, so carefully preserved on his radio show, is destroyed when he steps in front of the curtain; then an attempt is made to recreate it. Burns and Allen are employing the same technique, if it can be graced by so formal a word, a marriage of radio and vaudeville with the shotgun held by a television camera.

Charlie McCarthy, the impudent little hedonist, is a triumph of wish-fulfillment, to lapse basely into psychiatric terminology. He says all the things the rest of us have on the tips of our tongues (or wish we had) and aren't quite bold enough to say. His attitude and his sharp tongue, I'm willing to bet, would never be accepted in a real live human comedian. (Appearances to the contrary, comedians are human, always excepting those who are suing me for $2,010,000 who are optimists.)

* * *

In inventing Charlie, Bergen is resorting to the device Jonathan Swift used; a Lilliput or a Brobdignagian or a horse or a Charlie McCarthy can say things you and I can't get away with. This is a fine idea but, in recent years, Bergen has rather neglected the opportunity in favor of more conventional comedy—the kind you expect from human comedians and you know what kind that is. Charlie is as brash as ever ("Miles Standish went down in history"—"Well, I flunked it myself.") but I feel he'll be a good deal less convincing than he was on radio where you couldn't see him.

The two—Bergen and McCarthy—wandered around for awhile independent of each other, the blessings of film, but wound up locked in the usual proximity. Mortimer Snerd, the most colossal ignoramus of our time, showed up and, somehow, came across, better than McCarthy.

"Have you got an inferiority complex?"

"Not with me."

"What's your last name?"

"Let's see—uh—uh—why, I know it as well as my own name."

Bergen also introduced for the first time a new life-size puppet, Miss Podine Puffington, a babe with a southern accent and eyelashes three inches long. She's quite a dish, if you like puppets. The half hour ended with a sketch about the Puritans. Bergen and McCarthy were in the stocks, under the accusation of witchcraft. There were a good many gags about whether to burn them or chop their heads off. ("What'll it be — steaks or chops.") And nothing much came of it.

Frankly I think this attempt to cling to the forms of radio while breasting the cameras is a mistake. The Bergen show seems to have one foot in each of three different media which is one foot too many even for so accomplished a ventriloquist.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

One Foot Too Many

EDGAR BERGEN has been conscious of television perhaps longer than any major radio comedian, has been fiddling around with it experimentally for years and finally gave tongue on his first network show on CBS-TV. It didn't set any brushfires in my neighborhood.

Bergen defied the experience of others by putting his show on film. While this gave the program a flexibility he badly needed, it was gained at the expense of picture quality which was poor even by film standards. My opinion of film or kinescope on TV has been low from the outset and it gets lower each time someone else tries it. If you can't see the guy, it doesn't much matter how good the jokes are. Bergen wasn't invisible exactly, just murky, disappearing from view only occasionally.

John Crosby

* * *

That puts a comedian under a severe handicap, as if we were watching him through binoculars in the middle of the night. I wasn't entirely happy about the format of the show, either. Mr. Bergen appeared at the opening in front of that inevitable curtain to trade badinage with the inevitable studio audience which mercifully he kept out of sight. In other words, no shots of men and women beating their palms together, otherwise known as the Ed Sullivan dissolve.

After a minute or two of this, the curtain parted and we were in the Bergen-McCarthy home, examining the dust on Charlie's schoolbooks. I fail to understand this maneuver. The illusion of Mr. Bergen's home, so carefully preserved on his radio show, is destroyed when he steps in front of the curtain; then an attempt is made to recreate it. Burns and Allen are employing the same technique, if it can be graced by so formal a word, a marriage of radio and vaudeville with the shotgun held by a television camera.

Charlie McCarthy, the impudent little hedonist, is a triumph of wish-fulfillment, to lapse basely into psychiatric terminology. He says all the things the rest of us have on the tips of our tongues (or wish we had) and aren't quite bold enough to say. His attitude and his sharp tongue, I'm willing to bet, would never be accepted in a real live human comedian. (Appearances to the contrary, comedians are human, always excepting those who are suing me for $2,010,000 who are optimists.)

* * *

In inventing Charlie, Bergen is resorting to the device Jonathan Swift used; a Lilliput or a Brobdignagian or a horse or a Charlie McCarthy can say things you and I can't get away with. This is a fine idea but, in recent years, Bergen has rather neglected the opportunity in favor of more conventional comedy—the kind you expect from human comedians and you know what kind that is. Charlie is as brash as ever ("Miles Standish went down in history"—"Well, I flunked it myself.") but I feel he'll be a good deal less convincing than he was on radio where you couldn't see him.

The two—Bergen and McCarthy—wandered around for awhile independent of each other, the blessings of film, but wound up locked in the usual proximity. Mortimer Snerd, the most colossal ignoramus of our time, showed up and, somehow, came across, better than McCarthy.

"Have you got an inferiority complex?"

"Not with me."

"What's your last name?"

"Let's see—uh—uh—why, I know it as well as my own name."

Bergen also introduced for the first time a new life-size puppet, Miss Podine Puffington, a babe with a southern accent and eyelashes three inches long. She's quite a dish, if you like puppets. The half hour ended with a sketch about the Puritans. Bergen and McCarthy were in the stocks, under the accusation of witchcraft. There were a good many gags about whether to burn them or chop their heads off. ("What'll it be — steaks or chops.") And nothing much came of it.

Frankly I think this attempt to cling to the forms of radio while breasting the cameras is a mistake. The Bergen show seems to have one foot in each of three different media which is one foot too many even for so accomplished a ventriloquist.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

PATIENCE IS A VIRTUE

PATIENCE is truly a virtue in bridge, when applied at the proper juncture. The average player has a tendency to take any trick he can, without stopping to think of whether it might be better to lose that trick and take a later one. That principle can be observed for two diametrically opposed reasons. One of them is to enable you or your partner to gain the lead later on, when your side's suit will therefore be established. The other is to block your opponent from running his suit.

	♠ 9 6 4 ♥ 10 8 ♦ Q 10 9 8 6 ♣ Q 7 4
♠ 8 3 ♥ K 9 7 ♦ 4 3 ♦ A 5 2 ♣ 5 3 2	N W E S	♠ A K 7 ♥ 5 2 ♥ 6 5 2 ♦ 4 3 ♣ K 10 8
	♠ Q J 10 ♥ A Q J ♦ K J 7 ♣ A J 9 6

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	1 NT	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	3 NT

Lots of good players would have preferred a double to 1-No Trump in South's position, but the eventual contract probably would have been the same. It should not have been made, but was, because the two defenders made similar mistakes.

West led the 8 of his partner's spades. East promptly scored the K and A, then led the 5 to the Q to set up the rest of the suit. South went right to work on the diamond suit, leading the K. West came in with the A and, having no spade to return, led the club 5. That enabled South to score four tricks in clubs, the rest of the diamonds and the heart A, so that he had four tricks in diamonds, four in clubs and one each in the majors to get an extra trick.

East was the first defender to slip on the deal. He should have reckoned that his partner would not have led spades unless he had more than a singleton. Declarer surely had three to the Q, so West had exactly two. If East, reckoning thus, had let South have the first trick, West would have led the suit back for him to run as soon as either of the red suit honors won.

West's offense came when he won the first diamond lead. If he had held up the A for the third round, South could never have scored the rest of the suit in dummy, and would have been beaten no matter what he attempted to do thereafter—unless the defense made still another bad error of some kind.

Your Weekend Question

What are two contrasting reasons why "end-play" is an illogical name for the move whereby a player is put in the lead and obliged to make a costly return?

Market Advances To Halve Losses Earlier In Week

NEW YORK, Dec. 1 (AP) — The stock market advanced ponderously but decisively today.

The rise, coupled with Thursday's gains, just about cut in half the severe losses taken Tuesday and Wednesday as a result of ominous news from the Far East.

Final prices were at or near the top levels of the day.

Sales of 1,870,000 shares compared with 2,080,000 Thursday.

Rail shares were heavy favorites, along with sugar stocks, steels, and a selection of chemical, oil and manufacturing issues. Automobile stocks, on the other hand, were heavily traded but made little if any progress.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 80 cents to $84.10 a share. Rails were the strongest group.

Santa Fe stepped in front of the rail group with a gain of $2.25 a share at $131.30.

Up $1 a share or more each were Southern Railway at $44.25, Union Pacific $97, Southern Pacific $59.25, and Nickel Plate $172.50. Smaller gains were posted for Baltimore & Ohio, Missouri Pacific preferred, Canadian Pacific, Frisco, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, and Chesapeake & Ohio.

West Indies Sugar thrust ahead $1.87 to $30 and Francisco $1.25 to $18.25. Up less than $1 each were Guantanamo at $10 and Cuban-American Sugar at $20.

Radio Corp. gained only 37 cents at $17.37 despite two dividends totaling 75 cents.

Laclede Gas remained at $17.37 in the face of a raised dividend.

to improve something, create something, build something which in his opinion is sound. Nor are they empowered to say that one thing is good and another bad. The most the Federal Trade Commission, for instance, can say is that something is harmful or is falsely presented to the public after it is placed in use.

The FCC, however, did something altogether different. It picked a device and said that this is the one it approved. That was none of its business. Quite apart from the expansion of its functions outside the law, the FCC acted impetuously, for it knew that it was, by its action, making obsolete millions of television sets, which were owned not by great corporations but by private citizens who had paid their money for them or were in the process of paying for them.

If every television network adopted this device, no existent television set would carry black and white or color TV shows without expensive alterations. Furthermore, the FCC knew that millions of dollars were being spent to produce color TV by another method.

Therefore, this expansion of power, without an act of Congress, is not only wrong per se, but impractical. What's the hurry about this? Somebody might even invent something to abolish TV.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Is modern poetry "morbid"?

Answer: Yes, writes London psychiatrist, Dr. H. St. H Vertue, discussing the Oxford Book of Modern Verse. The work of the typical modern poet shows symptoms of mental imbalance. Trying to find an outlet for repressed emotions, he writes in a language unintelligible to everyone, himself included. He seeks to escape from a world which he finds intolerable, and as a result his poetry has lost touch with reality and shows schizophrenia rather than genius. Personally he may be as sane as anyone, but "his Muse has gone mad."

Are women "secret drinkers" more often than men?

Answer: Yes, said speakers at a Cleveland meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous. Women are apt to hide their drinking habits as they do their ages. The stage at which they are most likely to begin to take one drink too many is between forty and forty-five, when "they are too young to be grandmothers and their own children are past the child stage." With "too much time on their hands," they turn to alcohol to dull the sense of uselessness and frustration. But women who don't drink have less patience with those who do than men have.

May illness be unconscious imitation?

Answer: Yes. Just as the imitators of a genius may copy his eccentricities though they cannot equal his achievements, so a person who is eager to identify himself with another may develop the same illness as his idol. Freud tells of a girl who could not win the popularity with men that an older woman she admired enjoyed, but managed unconsciously to "copy" her by developing a cough like hers. The cough also provided a way of punishing herself for her secret jealousy of one whom she professed to "adore."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

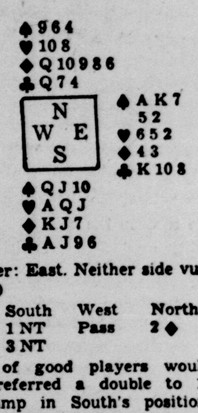
PATIENCE IS A VIRTUE

PATIENCE is truly a virtue in bridge, when applied at the proper juncture. The average player has a tendency to take any trick he can, without stopping to think of whether it might be better to lose that trick and take a later one. That principle can be observed for two diametrically opposed reasons. One of them is to enable you or your partner to gain the lead later on, when your side's suit will therefore be established. The other is to block your opponent from running his suit.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	1 NT	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	3 NT

Lots of good players would have preferred a double to 1-No Trump in South's position, but the eventual contract probably would have been the same. It should not have been made, but was, because the two defenders made similar mistakes.

West led the 8 of his partner's spades. East promptly scored the K and A, then led the 5 to the Q to set up the rest of the suit. South went right to work on the diamond suit, leading the K. West came in with the A and, having no spade to return, led the club 5. That enabled South to score four tricks in clubs, the rest of the diamonds and the heart A, so that he had four tricks in diamonds, four in clubs and one each in the majors to get an extra trick.

East was the first defender to slip on the deal. He should have reckoned that his partner would not have led spades unless he had more than a singleton. Declarer surely had three to the Q, so West had exactly two. If East, reckoning thus, had let South have the first trick, West would have led the suit back for him to run as soon as either of the red suit honors won.

West's offense came when he won the first diamond lead. If he had held up the A for the third round, South could never have scored the rest of the suit in dummy, and would have been beaten no matter what he attempted to do thereafter—unless the defense made still another bad error of some kind.

Your Weekend Question

What are two contrasting reasons why "end-play" is an illogical name for the move whereby a player is put in the lead and obliged to make a costly return?

to improve something, create something, build something which in his opinion is sound. Nor are they empowered to say that one thing is good and another bad. The most the Federal Trade Commission, for instance, can say is that something is harmful or is falsely presented to the public after it is placed in use.

The FCC, however, did something altogether different. It picked a device and said that this is the one it approved. That was none of its business. Quite apart from the expansion of its functions outside the law, the FCC acted impetuously, for it knew that it was, by its action, making obsolete millions of television sets, which were owned not by great corporations but by private citizens who had paid their money for them or were in the process of paying for them.

If every television network adopted this device, no existent television set would carry black and white or color TV shows without expensive alterations. Furthermore, the FCC knew that millions of dollars were being spent to produce color TV by another method.

Therefore, this expansion of power, without an act of Congress, is not only wrong per se, but impractical. What's the hurry about this? Somebody might even invent something to abolish TV.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Is modern poetry "morbid"?

Answer: Yes, writes London psychiatrist, Dr. H. St. H Vertue, discussing the Oxford Book of Modern Verse. The work of the typical modern poet shows symptoms of mental imbalance. Trying to find an outlet for repressed emotions, he writes in a language unintelligible to everyone, himself included. He seeks to escape from a world which he finds intolerable, and as a result his poetry has lost touch with reality and shows schizophrenia rather than genius. Personally he may be as sane as anyone, but "his Muse has gone mad."

Are women "secret drinkers" more often than men?

Answer: Yes, said speakers at a Cleveland meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous. Women are apt to hide their drinking habits as they do their ages. The stage at which they are most likely to begin to take one drink too many is between forty and forty-five, when "they are too young to be grandmothers and their own children are past the child stage." With "too much time on their hands," they turn to alcohol to dull the sense of uselessness and frustration. But women who don't drink have less patience with those who do than men have.

May illness be unconscious imitation?

Answer: Yes. Just as the imitators of a genius may copy his eccentricities though they cannot equal his achievements, so a person who is eager to identify himself with another may develop the same illness as his idol. Freud tells of a girl who could not win the popularity with men that an older woman she admired enjoyed, but managed unconsciously to "copy" her by developing a cough like hers. The cough also provided a way of punishing herself for her secret jealousy of one whom she professed to "adore."

Steel Plant Wage Pact Is Ratified

136-Day-Old Strike Ends At Local Mill

By a majority vote, members of Local 489, International Association of Machinists, yesterday ratified a wage settlement agreement to end the lengthy strike at the Cumberland Steel Company plant on Williams Street.

Virtual end of the 136-day-old walkout came yesterday morning when the union negotiating committee agreed to recommend an offer made by the firm.

H. F. Huff, Cleveland, O., grand lodge representative of the International Association of Machinists, said the agreement includes the following:

A 10-cent hourly increase, effective immediately, and retroactive pay of five cents an hour for the eight weeks prior to the work stoppage, which began last July 18.

The settlement also specifies that all of the 54 production and maintenance employes in the union be returned to work without discrimination and with their rights protected.

Maintenance men, watchmen and firemen will report today to get the plant into operation. Production is expected to resume wihin a week, Huff said.

Agreement Ratified

The agreement was ratified at 5 p. m. yesterday at a meeting of Local 489 in Trades Council Hall.

The union committee and Commissioner C. Stanley Clevenger, Winchester, Va., federal conciliator, agreed to recommend the company offer.

Clevenger termed the strike an orderly one and said both sides carried on the contract negotiations on a high plane.

Huff said negotiations on wages began November 28, 1949. The contract was renewed automatically for another year last June 30 but the wage question remained unsettled.

Held Twenty-Five Meetings

Some 25 meetings were held during the lengthy negotiations, which were intensified during the past few weeks, directed by Clevenger.

Union men commented that the strike was one of the longest in this area for sometime.

Clevenger said "I am pleased over the settlement. It is most gratifying to see the end of the lengthy strike, especially in view of the lateness of the year."

The conciliator said the strike was virtually settled at a meeting Thursday but final details were worked out at a session yesterday morning.

The union had asked for a 15-cent an hour wage hike. Wage rate at the steel plant ranges from $1.10½ cents an hour for laborers to $1.40½ for machinists, according to Albert D. Harrison, union shop chairman.

Kimble Says State Needs Unified Labor

"Best Friend" Speaks At CIO Convention

State Senator Robert B. Kimble, introduced as "labor's best friend in Annapolis," bluntly told delegates to the 12th annual Maryland Industrial Union Council, CIO, at yesterday's afternoon session at the Fort Cumberland Hotel that all Maryland labor must present a unified program if it expects passage by the State Legislature in January.

The "labor friend" tag was given Senator Kimble by Frank J. Bender, council president, when he presented the Allegany County man to the approximately 115 delegates from various CIO locals throughout Maryland.

Senator Kimble informed the convention delegates that they should act in a unified manner like the various Chambers of Commerce throughout the state do. As soon as the State Legislature convenes January 3, Kimble stated, a representative of the Baltimore Association of Commerce will set up an office in Annapolis. As soon as legislation affecting the Chambers of Commerce is presented, this representative will contact the various local chambers throughout Maryland. He will be able to go to the Governor almost in a matter of hours and tell him that all Chambers favor or oppose the legislation in question.

On the other hand, Senator Kimble asserted that the CIO, the AFL, and various independent unions each will have an independent spokesman at Annapolis. What labor needs, the senator added, is a single legislative committee representing all union labor. This committee should be empowered to act promptly polling legislative committees of all Maryland locals.

As conditions now stand, legislators can rightly tell the various independent labor organizations that they do not know what labor really does want adopted or defeated.

"So long as this condition continues Maryland labor will get only the crumbs," Senator Kimble emphasized.

In conclusion, the Allegany County legislator said that he would do everything in his power to see that Maryland coal, mined by Maryland miners will be used by the public institutions of the state.

TO TAKE OFFICE — Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney for Allegany county since 1937, will be sworn in this morning as associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit Court of Maryland.

Harris Will Be Sworn In Today As Circuit Judge

Bar Association Plans Ceremony

Morgan C. Harris will take office as associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit Court of Maryland in ceremonies scheduled for 10 o'clock this morning in the Allegany County Circuit Court room.

Harris will be administered the oath of his new office by Joseph E. Boden, clerk of circuit court. Just prior to being sworn in, Harris will submit his resignation as state's attorney for Allegany county, a post he has held since 1937.

Members of the Allegany County Bar Association have been notified of the swearing-in ceremony and will be on hand for a brief program prepared in conjunction with the induction of the new judge.

Paul M. Fletcher, newly elected state's attorney and president of the bar association, will preside during this phase of the ceremony.

Speakers will include D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Court of Appeals of Maryland; Walter C. Capper, former chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit and now chairman of the Allegany County Liquor Board; F. Brooke Whiting, prominent member of the bar, and William A. Gunter, Cumberland attorney and Republican candidate for attorney general of Maryland in the recent election.

After Harris is sworn in, Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce's term will have been completed. He was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Chief Judge William A. Huster upon the latter's retirement.

Both Judge Bruce and Associate Judge George Henderson expect to be on the bench when Harris is sworn in, but Joseph D. Mish, chief judge of the circuit, is not likely to be present because of ill health.

Bar association speakers in addition to honoring the new judge will extend their appreciation to Judge Bruce for his service on the bench.

CIO Approves 1½-Cent Hike In Its Dues

Split Vote Cast In Compromise Move

After opposing factions aired their differences during the heated session of the 12th annual Maryland Industrial Union Council, CIO, yesterday afternoon, the delegates on a split vote agreed to a compromise measure whereby dues to the council from the locals will be increased to three and one-half cents per month per member.

Thursday afternoon, John J. Smith, port agent of the National Maritime Union in Baltimore and chairman of the convention's auditing committee, submitted a report recommending that dues to the council from Maryland's numerous CIO locals be advanced from its present two cents per month per member to five cents per month per member. At that time the matter was referred to the constitution committee as a constitution change would be required to alter the dues schedule.

Patrick Zembower, Cumberland, a member of Local 26, URWA, threw the convention into an uproar yesterday afternoon, when, as secretary of the constitution committee, he reported that the committee favored continuation of the present two cents per month per member schedule.

A motion to accept this recommendation finally was defeated after a lengthy roll call vote. Final tabulation showed 213 votes against passage to 196 for acceptance. The reason that the votes exceeded the number of delegates is that voting was permitted on the basis of one vote for each 100 members or major fraction thereof.

Audrey M. Smid, delegate from Division 16, CWA, Baltimore, and a vice-president of the CIO Council, moved that the constitution be amended to increase the dues to three and one-half cents, half of the boost recommended by Smith.

A number of delegates aired their views on Miss Smid's motion for about an hour before a standing vote finally was taken. Leading the opposition was Chris Lucas, president of Local 2610, United Steelworkers, of Sparrows Point. He contended that "free riders" should be brought back into the council before dues are increased.

Shipbuilders Favor Motion

Spokesmen favoring the increase included Ernest J. Moran, assistant director, Region 8, UAW, and Jack Gerson, regional director of the shipbuilding workers of Baltimore. The standing vote was 60 for the increase and 36 principally the steel workers, in opposition.

During the morning session yesterday four resolutions were adopted by the delegates. These reaffirmed the Maryland CIO's complete support of our government and the United Nations in the Korean struggle against Communist aggression, full mobilization of the economic resources of this country, that the council operate a booth at the Timonium Fair and endorsement of the Amalgamated union label campaign.

Another resolution, endorsed by the resolutions committee, is expected to get favorable vote this morning as the three-day convention closes. This proposal would "applaud Secretary of State Dean Acheson's courageous refusal to be diverted from the high tasks of his office by the reckless charges of Senator McCarthy."

Election Slated Today

Highlights of today's session is expected to be the election of council's officers. At noon yesterday the delegates toured the Cumberland Brewing Company. Last night they enjoyed a dinner and dance at Bowman's Addition Fire Hall.

Rabbi N. J. Wilner of B'er Chayim Congregation delivered the invocation yesterday morning.

One of the speakers Friday morning, Anthony Wayne Smith, Washington, assistant director of CIO councils in the United States and Canada, called for the delegates to elect union members to legislative positions both state and national.

He also dwelt on the CIO's regional planning program to relieve urban congestion by the decentralization of industry. He said the CIO has prepared a proposal for the systematic moving of industry from the crowded, atom bomb-vulnerable cities to rural areas.

Max Orlow, Baltimore, labor representative in liaison personnel of the Maryland Employment Security Board, spoke on the benefits to which workers are entitled under the present laws.

Burke Resigns As Head Of Airport Group

Commission Plans Meeting December 7

Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, said yesterday he has resigned as chairman of the Municipal Airport Commission.

Burke said he took the action several weeks ago because of press of other duties.

The Kelly-Springfield official said his resignation has been accepted by Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Burke was appointed to the seven-man commission when it was established by city ordinance in December, 1945.

He was elected permanent chairman at the group's first meeting in February, 1946.

Prior to the appointment of the commission, Burke served as chairman of the airport committee.

The ordinance empowers commission members to appoint successors when vacancies occur.

A meeting has been scheduled Thursday evening, December 7, at 7:30 o'clock at City Hall.

Civil Defense Plan Outlined By Barger

A discussion of the Maryland Civil Defense Plan as outlined and detailed by the state director of civil defense was held at a meeting of the Advisory Council for Civil Defense of Allegany County last night at the Naval Armory.

William G. Barger, county director for civil defense, presided over the meeting and outlined the state plan, which will be used as a guide for a county-wide program now being organized.

Individual plans concerning organization and work to be done by the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Association, Red Cross, Police and Fire departments, state roads commission and public utilities will be drawn up by each of these organizations and combined into an integral plan for county-wide use.

The defense setup is being planned to combat any unforseen emergency such as a local disaster or military attack, Barger said.

Attending the meeting were Dr. L. E. Daugherty, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, Assistant Fire Chief R. Paul Reid, Henry W. Price, district manager of Potomac Edison Company, George B. Hale, state roads commission and Mr. Barger

Civic Group Makes Plans To Seek Proposed Army Laboratory Here

Schedule Meetings In Washington, D. C.

A group of local civic leaders interested in having Cumberland named the site of the proposed $12,000,000 Army Quartermaster Corps laboratory will leave for Washington, D. C., Monday to meet with officials to discuss the project.

Arrangements were made by Rep. J. Glenn Beall of the Sixth Congressional District for the group to hold conferences with Robert Frye, secretary of Ad Hoc Site Selection Committee of the Research Development Board, Department of Defense and Edward Keenan, development director of the Bureau of Employment Security.

David Kauffman, chairman of the Steering Committee for Economic Development of Allegany County, said last night that the local delegation would include, besides himself, County Commissioner James Holmes, Lonaconing, Francis Kenney, chairman of the Allegany County Industrial Promotion Committee, C. E. Stutzman, representative of Western Maryland Full Employment Commission, and C. William Spangler, county-state veterans representative.

Other state representatives who also will attend the meetings are Alvin Pasarew, director of Maryland State Planning Commission, Grafton Lee Brown, state veterans representative and possibly Rep. Beall.

Earlier the Allegany County Board of Commissioners sent telegrams to Maryland's representatives in Congress and to high government officials urging the location of the proposed lab here.

The missives were sent Senators Millard E. Tydings, Herbert R. O'Conor; Rep. Beall, Rep. Harley O. Staggers of Mineral County, W. Va., Maurice Tobin, secretary of labor, and William Devlin, area development division of Department of Commerce.

The telegrams stated that a manpower surplus is in this area and Cumberland has many military advantages, such as good transportation, water, highways and security due to surrounding mountainous terrain.

CIO Council Head Joined UMW In Ohio At Age Of 10

If you don't look at the identification button on the coat lapel of the gentle-talking, gray-haired 61-year-old man you might think that he is a haberdasher, some other successful business man or possibly a school teacher.

The identification button reveals this man is Frank J. Bender, of Baltimore, president of the Maryland Industrial Union Council, CIO, who today is winding up the council's 12th annual convention at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Despite his physical appearance, Bender has had a life that has been far from a "bed of roses."

Ever since the age of 10 years, when he joined the United Mine Workers local at Zanesville, Ohio, April 10, 1900, Bender has been a union member. As a matter of fact, he recalled yesterday at the close of the convention's afternoon session, he still pays dues to the UMW despite the fact that since April 29, 1937, he has been affiliated with the CIO.

Ever since that 1937 date Bender has been in Maryland as a CIO regional director. He recalls that he is the only regional director who still holds the same position that he had in 1937.

Bender's continuing loyalty to the UMW, he explains, stems from 1904 when his father was killed when a coal mine collapsed at Cambridge, Ohio. That left Frank as a 14-year old boy with the responsibility of taking care of his mother, three sisters and four brothers.

As a coal miner he worked in Ohio, Illinois and West Virginia. Subsequently, he became secretary-treasurer of Sub-District 6 of District 6, including Ohio and West Virginia's Northern Panhandle. He also simultaneously was president of the Zanesville Federation of Labor.

Although his formal education extended only to the fifth grade level, Bender managed to take a correspondence school law course. Although unable to obtain admission to the bar because of his lack of education, Bender may appear before the National Labor Relations Board in Washington to argue cases. This he has done on a number of occasions.

Now considered one of the "old-timers" in the labor movement, Bender believes the future of organized labor lies with young people.

"You've got to train young people in this labor movement," Bender says. "The CIO is a young men's organization for it gives positions of leadership to its younger members."

Steel Plant Wage Pact Is Ratified

136-Day-Old Strike Ends At Local Mill

By a majority vote, members of Local 489, International Association of Machinists, yesterday ratified a wage settlement agreement to end the lengthy strike at the Cumberland Steel Company plant on Williams Street.

Virtual end of the 136-day-old walkout came yesterday morning when the union negotiating committee agreed to recommend an offer made by the firm.

H. F. Huff, Cleveland, O., grand lodge representative of the International Association of Machinists, said the agreement includes the following:

A 10-cent hourly increase, effective immediately, and retroactive pay of five cents an hour for the eight weeks prior to the work stoppage, which began last July 18.

The settlement also specifies that all of the 54 production and maintenance employes in the union be returned to work without discrimination and with their rights protected.

Maintenance men, watchmen and firemen will report today to get the plant into operation. Production is expected to resume wihin a week, Huff said.

Agreement Ratified

The agreement was ratified at 5 p. m. yesterday at a meeting of Local 489 in Trades Council Hall.

The union committee and Commissioner C. Stanley Clevenger, Winchester, Va., federal conciliator, agreed to recommend the company offer.

Clevenger termed the strike an orderly one and said both sides carried on the contract negotiations on a high plane.

Huff said negotiations on wages began November 28, 1949. The contract was renewed automatically for another year last June 30 but the wage question remained unsettled.

Held Twenty-Five Meetings

Some 25 meetings were held during the lengthy negotiations, which were intensified during the past few weeks, directed by Clevenger.

Union men commented that the strike was one of the longest in this area for sometime.

Clevenger said "I am pleased over the settlement. It is most gratifying to see the end of the lengthy strike, especially in view of the lateness of the year."

The conciliator said the strike was virtually settled at a meeting Thursday but final details were worked out at a session yesterday morning.

The union had asked for a 15-cent an hour wage hike. Wage rate at the steel plant ranges from $1.10½ cents an hour for laborers to $1.40½ for machinists, according to Albert D. Harrison, union shop chairman.

Kimble Says State Needs Unified Labor

"Best Friend" Speaks At CIO Convention

State Senator Robert B. Kimble, introduced as "labor's best friend in Annapolis," bluntly told delegates to the 12th annual Maryland Industrial Union Council, CIO, at yesterday's afternoon session at the Fort Cumberland Hotel that all Maryland labor must present a unified program if it expects passage by the State Legislature in January.

The "labor friend" tag was given Senator Kimble by Frank J. Bender, council president, when he presented the Allegany County man to the approximately 115 delegates from various CIO locals throughout Maryland.

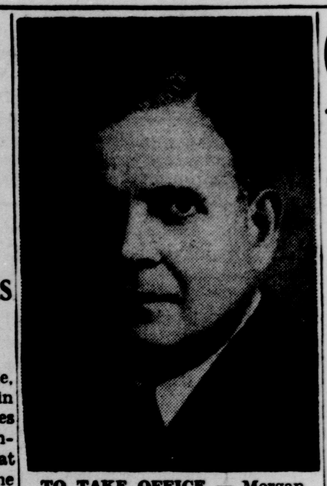
Senator Kimble informed the convention delegates that they should act in a unified manner like the various Chambers of Commerce throughout the state do. As soon as the State Legislature convenes January 3, Kimble stated, a representative of the Baltimore Association of Commerce will set up an office in Annapolis. As soon as legislation affecting the Chambers of Commerce is presented, this representative will contact the various local chambers throughout Maryland. He will be able to go to the Governor almost in a matter of hours and tell him that all Chambers favor or oppose the legislation in question.

On the other hand, Senator Kimble asserted that the CIO, the AFL, and various independent unions each will have an independent spokesman at Annapolis. What labor needs, the senator added, is a single legislative committee representing all union labor. This committee should be empowered to act promptly polling legislative committees of all Maryland locals.

As conditions now stand, legislators can rightly tell the various independent labor organizations that they do not know what labor really does want adopted or defeated.

"So long as this condition continues Maryland labor will get only the crumbs," Senator Kimble emphasized.

In conclusion, the Allegany County legislator said that he would do everything in his power to see that Maryland coal, mined by Maryland miners will be used by the public institutions of the state.



TO TAKE OFFICE — Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney for Allegany county since 1937, will be sworn in this morning as associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit Court of Maryland.

Harris Will Be Sworn In Today As Circuit Judge

Bar Association Plans Ceremony

Morgan C. Harris will take office as associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit Court of Maryland in ceremonies scheduled for 10 o'clock this morning in the Allegany County Circuit Court room.

Harris will be administered the oath of his new office by Joseph E. Boden, clerk of circuit court. Just prior to being sworn in, Harris will submit his resignation as state's attorney for Allegany county, a post he has held since 1937.

Members of the Allegany County Bar Association have been notified of the swearing-in ceremony and will be on hand for a brief program prepared in conjunction with the induction of the new judge.

Paul M. Fletcher, newly elected state's attorney and president of the bar association, will preside during this phase of the ceremony.

Speakers will include D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Court of Appeals of Maryland; Walter C. Capper, former chief judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit and now chairman of the Allegany County Liquor Board; F. Brooke Whiting, prominent member of the bar, and William A. Gunter, Cumberland attorney and Republican candidate for attorney general of Maryland in the recent election.

After Harris is sworn in, Associate Judge Oliver H. Bruce's term will have been completed. He was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Chief Judge William A. Huster upon the latter's retirement.

Both Judge Bruce and Associate Judge George Henderson expect to be on the bench when Harris is sworn in, but Joseph D. Mish, chief judge of the circuit, is not likely to be present because of ill health.

Bar association speakers in addition to honoring the new judge will extend their appreciation to Judge Bruce for his service on the bench.

CIO Approves 1½-Cent Hike In Its Dues

Split Vote Cast In Compromise Move

After opposing factions aired their differences during the heated session of the 12th annual Maryland Industrial Union Council, CIO, yesterday afternoon, the delegates on a split vote agreed to a compromise measure whereby dues to the council from the locals will be increased to three and one-half cents per month per member.

Thursday afternoon, John J. Smith, port agent of the National Maritime Union in Baltimore and chairman of the convention's auditing committee, submitted a report recommending that dues to the council from Maryland's numerous CIO locals be advanced from its present two cents per month per member to five cents per month per member. At that time the matter was referred to the constitution committee as a constitution change would be required to alter the dues schedule.

Patrick Zembower, Cumberland, a member of Local 26, URWA, threw the convention into an uproar yesterday afternoon, when, as secretary of the constitution committee, he reported that the committee favored continuation of the present two cents per month per member schedule.

A motion to accept this recommendation finally was defeated after a lengthy roll call vote. Final tabulation showed 213 votes against passage to 196 for acceptance. The reason that the votes exceeded the number of delegates is that voting was permitted on the basis of one vote for each 100 members or major fraction thereof.

Audrey M. Smid, delegate from Division 16, CWA, Baltimore, and a vice-president of the CIO Council, moved that the constitution be amended to increase the dues to three and one-half cents, half of the boost recommended by Smith.

A number of delegates aired their views on Miss Smid's motion for about an hour before a standing vote finally was taken. Leading the opposition was Chris Lucas, president of Local 2610, United Steelworkers, of Sparrows Point. He contended that "free riders" should be brought back into the council before dues are increased.

Shipbuilders Favor Motion

Spokesmen favoring the increase included Ernest J. Moran, assistant director, Region 8, UAW, and Jack Gerson, regional director of the shipbuilding workers of Baltimore. The standing vote was 60 for the increase and 36 principally the steel workers, in opposition.

During the morning session yesterday four resolutions were adopted by the delegates. These reaffirmed the Maryland CIO's complete support of our government and the United Nations in the Korean struggle against Communist aggression, full mobilization of the economic resources of this country, that the council operate a booth at the Timonium Fair and endorsement of the Amalgamated union label campaign.

Another resolution, endorsed by the resolutions committee, is expected to get favorable vote this morning as the three-day convention closes. This proposal would "applaud Secretary of State Dean Acheson's courageous refusal to be diverted from the high tasks of his office by the reckless charges of Senator McCarthy."

Election Slated Today

Highlights of today's session is expected to be the election of council's officers. At noon yesterday the delegates toured the Cumberland Brewing Company. Last night they enjoyed a dinner and dance at Bowman's Addition Fire Hall.

Rabbi N. J. Wilner of B'er Chayim Congregation delivered the invocation yesterday morning.

One of the speakers Friday morning, Anthony Wayne Smith, Washington, assistant director of CIO councils in the United States and Canada, called for the delegates to elect union members to legislative positions both state and national.

He also dwelt on the CIO's regional planning program to relieve urban congestion by the decentralization of industry. He said the CIO has prepared a proposal for the systematic moving of industry from the crowded, atom bomb-vulnerable cities to rural areas.

Max Orlow, Baltimore, labor representative in liaison personnel of the Maryland Employment Security Board, spoke on the benefits to which workers are entitled under the present laws.

Commission Plans Meeting December 7

Edmund S. Burke, president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, said yesterday he has resigned as chairman of the Municipal Airport Commission.

Burke said he took the action several weeks ago because of press of other duties.

The Kelly-Springfield official said his resignation has been accepted by Mayor Thomas S. Post.

Burke was appointed to the seven-man commission when it was established by city ordinance in December, 1945.

He was elected permanent chairman at the group's first meeting in February, 1946.

Civil Defense Plan Outlined By Barger

A discussion of the Maryland Civil Defense Plan as outlined and detailed by the state director of civil defense was held at a meeting of the Advisory Council for Civil Defense of Allegany County last night at the Naval Armory.

Individual plans concerning organization and work to be done by the Allegany-Garrett County Medical Association, Red Cross, Police and Fire departments, state roads commission and public utilities will be drawn up by each of these organizations and combined into an integral plan for county-wide use.

The defense setup is being planned to combat any unforseen emergency such as a local disaster or military attack, Barger said.

Attending the meeting were Dr. L. E. Daugherty, City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, Assistant Fire Chief R. Paul Reid, Henry W. Price, district manager of Potomac Edison Company, George B. Hale, state roads commission and Mr. Barger

If you don't look at the identification button on the coat lapel of the gentle-talking, gray-haired 61-year-old man you might think that he is a haberdasher, some other successful business man or possibly a school teacher.

The identification button reveals this man is Frank J. Bender, of Baltimore, president of the Maryland Industrial Union Council, CIO, who today is winding up the council's 12th annual convention at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Despite his physical appearance, Bender has had a life that has been far from a "bed of roses."

Ever since the age of 10 years, when he joined the United Mine Workers local at Zanesville, Ohio, April 10, 1900, Bender has been a union member. As a matter of fact, he recalled yesterday at the close of the convention's afternoon session, he still pays dues to the UMW despite the fact that since April 29, 1937, he has been affiliated with the CIO.

Ever since that 1937 date Bender has been in Maryland as a CIO regional director. He recalls that he is the only regional director who still holds the same position that he had in 1937.

Bender's continuing loyalty to the UMW, he explains, stems from 1904 when his father was killed when a coal mine collapsed at Cambridge, Ohio. That left Frank as a 14-year old boy with the responsibility of taking care of his mother, three sisters and four brothers.

As a coal miner he worked in Ohio, Illinois and West Virginia. Subsequently, he became secretary-treasurer of Sub-District 6 of District 6, including Ohio and West Virginia's Northern Panhandle. He also simultaneously was president of the Zanesville Federation of Labor.

Although his formal education extended only to the fifth grade level, Bender managed to take a correspondence school law course. Although unable to obtain admission to the bar because of his lack of education, Bender may appear before the National Labor Relations Board in Washington to argue cases. This he has done on a number of occasions.

Now considered one of the "old-timers" in the labor movement, Bender believes the future of organized labor lies with young people.

"You've got to train young people in this labor movement," Bender says. "The CIO is a young men's organization for it gives positions of leadership to its younger members."
